News About GIRL SCOUTS

TROOP 306 BARNUM SCHOOL

On May 24, the Girl Scouts of Troop 306 had a full day of sight-seeing. They started by a visit to the Great Lakes Book Bindery in Ferndale where they saw books being rebound and repaired, pamphlets being bound, and examples of the various types of bindings.

The Detroit Public Library was the second building they visited, and they were very impressed by its architecture and murals. Considerable time was spent in the department that exhibited books with fine bindings made from leather, metal, silk and linen. They saw examples of very old book binding and modern bindings.

Lunch-time found the Girl Scouts hungry but anxious to continue their tour. They enjoyed lunch in the cafeteria of the Macomb Building where they met the manager of television station WXYZ-TV. He invited them to inspect the studio and took them through the Lady of Charm's kitchen.

The day ended with a visit to the Historical Museum. Troop 306 was accompanied on this field trip by Mrs. Virginia Jackson, Mrs. Kenneth Gordon and Mrs. James Cox.
