

Miss Hood Wins Award for Art in Regional Contest

Five art students in the Preparatory department of Penn Hall Junior College and Preparatory School, Chambersburg, Pa., received awards for their entries in the Central Pennsylvania Regional Scholastic Art Contest held recently at Williamsport, Pa. A gold achievement key was awarded to Katherine Ann Hood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley R. Hood of Charing Cross road, for two oil crayons. As a result of winning this regional recognition, these pictures will be entered in the National Scholastic Art Contest, the encouragement of art ability Exhibition to be held at Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh, in May.

THE SCHOLASTIC Art Exhibition is sponsored by Scholastic Magazine of New York City for among students in grades seven through twelve in public, private and parochial schools throughout the United States and its possessions. These Regional Exhibitions give students the opportunity for local recognition of their work.
