BIRMINGHAM'S MAYOR Dean G. Beier (with microphone) introduces General MacArthur (with back to the camera) to last Thursday's crowd gathered at Woodward and Harmon to welcome this famous military leader.

Hankering Hashers Hope to Beat Bantam Ben

By HAL P. BUEGER Eccentric's Golf Editor

Trim up your swing and smooth out your putting stroke—you have the opportunity of a golfer's lifetime coming up on Saturday, May 31. You, yes you (along with every other hasher) are invited to match strokes with United States Open Champion, Ben Hogan on that day.

BEN HOGAN Can you beat him May 31?

It's no joke—he's consented to give you an opportunity to beat him on the links. Of course, you will be a non-title match, but you can play him and thereafter boast that you were matched with the champ.

The public address system which was used by the General and the Mayor was loaned for the occasion by Birmingham Police Lt. Henry Timm, who also set it up that day.

Smile

AS I BRACED hands and knees against the car to keep from catapulting into her lap, shared the thrill of that one small boy, for I, too, had the smile, and her gracious promise to let me off at the next bus stop if that one last surging shove did put me headfirst into the car.

Sidelights

WOMEN CONTESTANTS

will be permitted to play from the ladies' tees, and will be allowed five strokes in addition to their bona fide handicaps.

General Reinhardt

early Friday morning decided to wear civies during the welcoming ceremonies. "I changed my mind when I saw the Detroit celebration over TV," explained Reinhardt.

RADIO AND TV

cameras will follow Hogan around the Northwood course and his score broadcast to every locker room and clubhouse in the land.

Birmingham merchants

along Woodward avenue began placing their American flags at the curb about the middle of that Friday morning as a salute to MacArthur.
