Suburban Seen
By KAY REED

WE THOUGHT WE HAD HEARD all about the Torch Drive—the way, how and where; kick-off dinners; fund report luncheons; money-raising projects and the rest. We read the prize-winning essays, and noted the large contributions from individuals and industries.

Then we marked our card and became more or less oblivious of the campaign. But we began following the drive's progress with renewed interest after coming upon two reports from area captain, Mrs. Roscoe Hallock of Bradford road.

It seems that one of Mrs. Hallock's workers was making a call in the neighborhood and was settled down in the living room, receiving a contribution from the lady of the house. Seven-year-old son hovered in the background while the aims of the United Foundation were outlined. Puzzled, he at last asked several questions, then disappeared into the upper regions.

He reappeared a bit later with some coins tightly clutched in his hand. His contribution of 24 cents was duly noted and entered in the records, and he was given the regulation card and pin.

With that over, seven-year-old left the house for the great outdoors. Apparently he did not hide his charitable works under a bushel, for around dinner a ring at the doorbell produced another pin-sized contributor with a quarter to give.

He had hardly left with his card and pin when yet another young gentleman appeared with 25 cents. The accumulated 74 cents goes in with a very special thanks to the lads concerned.

ANOTHER YOUNG Matron gave fifteen dollars with the fervent wish that "it could be double the amount." The collector, unused to quite that reaction, must have looked momentarily stunned for the giver went on to explain that a bout with polio in their immediate family had been stayed off only by tremendous help from the United Foundation.

REPORTS GATHERED from other parts of the area indicate that the drive is going exceptionally well, with the Indian Summer weather getting an assist. Area captains particularly are impressed with the amounts given by women in the home, since the husbands are giving at the office.

SINCE THIS IS "Civic Day" in Suburban Seen, we conclude that the drive is going exceptionally well, with the Indian Summer weather getting an assist. Area captains particularly are impressed with the amounts given by women in the home, since the husbands are giving at the office.

Christ Child Chapter's Activities in Full Swing

To the forty active members and twelve probationers in the Birmingham unit of the Detroit chapter of the Christ Child Society, one day a month contains eight "children's hours."

THE BIRMINGHAM unit, now almost a year old, is still closely affiliated with the Detroit chapter, and participates in its fund-raising projects, such as the bazaar to be held at the Latin Quarter in December.

Members also do their part in supporting the Christ Child House on Palister in Detroit which cares for wards of the court. Another project jointly, shared in the "Clothes Closet," a resale shop on 12th street, with proceeds going to the house.

Mrs. Frederick Colombo is chair-

Family Concerts Commence Sunday With Ethel Smith

Something new in entertainment will be offered by the Detroit Symphony at three o'clock Sunday afternoon, November 2, in the Masonic Auditorium when organist Ethel Smith appears as soloist at the first family concert of the season.

With Walter Poole conducting, the full 105-man Detroit Symphony will display itself in a light musical vein in accompanying Miss Smith.

A familiar name in South America, Europe and America through her movies, supper club, radio, television and stage appearances, Miss Smith is endeavoring herself to the classical concert world with her organ performances.

Among the works she will play with the Detroit Symphony are "Tico-Tico" and "Brazil," "Fiddle Faddle," "Clair de Lune," "Comedian's Gallop," "Andalucia," "Ritual Fire Dance," and "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers."

THE ORCHESTRA has programmed Griffes' "White Peacock," Dvorak's "Carnival Overture," Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess," and Borodin's "Polovtsian Dance." The concerts are especially designed for the pleasure of the entire family.
