

Suburban Seen

By KAY REED

WE WENT TO a fashion showing in the big city last week. Feeling a bit like the "country mouse" on arriving, we really felt like we'd been to another world before the end of the evening.

The models were more closely scrutinized than the clothes by the metropolitan fashion moguls. While we were being mightily impressed by a collection of suits, we overheard the wearer's "conformation" appraised as one would a race horse. Even the teeth!

Our confusion was confounded by the revelation that one particularly lovely and fragile-appearing fabric's chief claim to fame was its ability to be washed in Roman Cleanser. And all along, we thought material dissolved if exposed to anything that didn't float.

Among our gleanings was the re-incarnation of the squared shoulder. Well, we, for one, are glad to see it. Having rounded ones we are happy to have a little help.

DETERMINED AS we are to avoid ALL political discussions during the next heated months, we didn't even turn on TV for Labor Day's "kick-off" speech by candidate S.

But we encountered his caravan motoring leisurely up Woodward just south of this suburb. We understand quite a group lined the curbs farther along the route, but from our vantage point the friendly little group—some of whom weren't speaking to the others not so long ago in Chicago—looked like a big family out for Sunday drive. Not even the pedestrians looked up to see the limousine go by. We look at everything.

MARYMOUNT COLLEGE alumnae and undergrads gathered at the Stabler last Saturday for their annual luncheon and introduction of incoming freshmen. Among those who will be arriving on the Tarrytown, N. Y. campus for the first time on September 16 is Mary Jo Stenger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Stenger of Pilgrim road.

WHEN MR. AND MRS. Harvey Hansen of Bloomfield Hills arrived this summer at the Brize-Norton, England, home of former localities Col. and Mrs. Graydon Booth, the first people they met were Mr. and Mrs. Muir-Lind of Moberg road and daughter Elizabeth.

The local atmosphere was intensified by the arrival of the Booths' son Roger, on leave from Annapolis. Roger was able to join his father on a trip to Turkey where he visited his fiancée, Gloria Doman and her parents, Col. and Mrs. Doman.

The suburban scene was almost complete with the arrival of Gilbert Gove, Jr. at the Booths' home. An Amherst College junior, Gilbert recently completed a motorcycle tour of Europe.

WHILE LUNCHING at a nearby drug store, a favorite habit of teen-agers, we were amazed and not a little horrified to see a young man complete his meal, retrieve his as yet uncollected money, tear up his check and neatly pocket the remains. Larceny in everyday life.

Is it not a lovely sight to see a young couple walking down the street, with the man and woman revealing their parenthood at one or more children accompany them? Such scenes revive many happy memories in the minds of grandparents, too.

AOA Entertains Foreign Visitors

In cooperation with the State department, the local American Overseas Association again entertained European representatives from the Mutual Security Agency.

The visitors, eleven Germans inspecting agricultural aspects of this country, were invited into local homes in keeping with the aim of best acquainting them with the American way of life.

Among the entertainments was an August 31 picnic given by Mrs. William J. Simpson of Derby road for thirty guests. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Henick hosted a September 6 dinner party.

While in the Birmingham area the visitors were the guests of Dearborn Motors.

THE AMERICAN Overseas Association, composed of Red Cross personnel who served abroad in the last war, held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the Veterans Memorial Building. The group meets the second Tuesday of each month.

MR. STANLEY ERIC REINHART, JR.

Wedding Cake Is Cut With Husband's Sword

In keeping with the military tradition of her husband's family, Mrs. Stanley Eric Reinhart, Jr., cut her wedding cake with Captain Reinhart's sword. Both Captain Reinhart and his father, Major General Eric Reinhart, USA (retired), were in uniform for the late Friday afternoon nuptials.

The bride is the former Sarah Jean Kemp, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Lloyd Kemp of Yarmouth road. General and Mrs. Reinhart make their home on Randall Court.

TO REPEAT her vows before the Rev. Robert DeWitt in Christ Church Cranbrook, the bride wore a gown of ivory Chantilly lace and satin.

The lace panels down the front and back of her full skirt, carried into the bodice and formed her long sleeves. Satin covered buttons extended to a tiny Peter Pan collar. The gown was finished with a long train.

A lace cloche held her fingertip veil, and the bridal bouquet was of orchids and stephanotis.

Mary Kemp was her sister's maid of honor. Completing the bridal procession were Bartholomew, Nancy Trumbull; Mrs. Robert S. Risley; another sister of the bride; and the groom's sister, Mrs. Lawrence Pomeroy, Jr.

All were in ballerina gowns of mauve lace fashioned with sweetheart necklines. They wore matching hats and shoes and carried rubrum lilies.

FOR HER daughter's nuptials Mrs. Kemp chose a waist-length gown of aqua lace with matching accessories and accented with a corsage of brown spray orchids.

Mrs. Reinhart was in a waist-length gray nylon net gown. She wore blue accessories and a pink spray orchid corsage.

Gen. Reinhart was his son's best man.

An afternoon picnic for twenty-five families followed. Jack Bowdren was program chairman. Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Aten were in charge of prizes for the children.
