

United Nations Talk Features Altrusa Session

Members of the Altrusa club heard a panel discussion on the United Nations at their meeting Monday evening, Sept. 22, at the Community House.

Mrs. Philip Gentile, of the extension department, University of Michigan, acted as moderator for the discussion. Participating as representatives of various countries or agencies were Mrs. F. G. Garrison, United States; Mrs. Harold Corson, Unesco; Mrs. Joseph Hudjisky, non-government representative; Mrs. C. M. Beebe, India; Mrs. Annabelle McClay, Indonesia; Mrs. Ruth Shain, Egypt; Mrs. Samuel Knowlton, United Kingdom; Mrs. Henry Foley, USSR; and Mrs. John Lambie, Netherlands.

Mrs. Wilber Johnstone, of the MOMs club, who developed the panel, said that the MOMs groups want to "help prevent another war and to do so we must find all means for preventing it and develop all means for finding peace."

THE ROLE that Unesco plays in working for world peace was brought out at the discussion. Through education, science and culture, Unesco hopes to remove barriers between nations, Mrs. Corson stated. The cost of United Nations per person is only 75 cents a year, she said, and only two cents of that goes for Unesco. Willem K. Von Weller of Royal Oak, consul from the Netherlands, attended the meeting.

Wedding Anniversary Open House For 100

More than 100 friends helped Mr. and Mrs. Donald S. McGuire celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary at an open house Sunday afternoon at their Pilgrim Road home.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bradley S. Joyce, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Edick and Dr. and Mrs. Edgar Clark, all from New York state who were week end guests of the McGuires.

Birthdays, anniversaries, guests, births, parties are all news—call the society editor about them.

MRS. CHARLES BLUNT DOROTHY ROE
AAUW book sale chairman presents books to recreational therapist

Mental Patients Get Books

Pontiac state hospital has received a gift of a 1939 encyclopedia, contributed to this year's AAUW book sale, the book sale committee revealed.

Recently, Mrs. John Lane, 1870 Latham, member of the transportation committee, called at the home of a contributor to pick up a collection of books, slated for the sale. She found the contribution to be a 1939 adult encyclopedia.

"The owner indicated that she hoped someone would get these books who really needed and want them," Mrs. Lane said. "She felt that they were too valuable to discard, but did not know how to dispose of them. She was certain, however, that AAUW, handling as many books as it does in the book sale, would surely know what to do."

IT WAS ASCERTAINED that Baldwin public library already owns a more recent edition of this encyclopedia. Furthermore, it would not be particularly useful to the local schools since it is pre-Second World War as well as an adult edition.

Contacts were then made by the book sale committee with hospitals and homes in Oakland county to determine who needed and wanted these books most.

Mrs. Kenneth Gibson, 2075 W. Lincoln, visitor at Pontiac state hospital, contacted Miss Dorothy Roe, director of recreational therapy there.

After consultation with the librarian, Miss Roe accepted the gift for the hospital. She pointed out that the hospital library is in constant use. Many of the patients take correspondence courses of other school work while hospitalized.

BEFORE RECEIVING the gift encyclopedia, Miss Roe said that the only encyclopedia the library owned was an incomplete 1911 edition of the Britannic. Though an excellent edition, its incompleteness reduced the value of the set, and in general informational matters it was far less up to date than the gift edition.

"Since the Michigan legislature drastically cut the mental hospital appropriation," Miss Roe said, "it is unlikely that any of the curtailed budget could be used for books. Therefore the hospital is particularly happy to receive the gift."

She added that a great part of the hospital library is composed

DAR Antique Show Exhibitors Listed

For those who love the old and beautiful, the Piety Hill Antique show at the Community House, Oct. 1-4, will be one they will not miss. It is the second annual show sponsored by Piety Hill Chapter, DAR.

Many of the exhibitors who participated last year will again present their wares. Items in clear and colored American pressed glass will be offered by George and Michael Abraham of Detroit, dealers in early American antiques for 16 years. They are said to have the best assortment of every variety of glass made in this country and have mailed their pieces to collectors all over the country.

Ralph A. Meyer, from Delaware Gap, Pa., will have items for show and sale in many fields. He specializes in primitives and Pennsylvania Dutch items.

Mary Thornton Antiques from Royal Oak will again display the rare and beautiful historical Staffordshire.

out of those left from previous sales and sent to the hospital by Mrs. Gibson.

"SINCE THE profits from the book sale are used for educational purposes, it seems fitting that this encyclopedia has gone directly to a large hospital where many persons will use and appreciate it. It will certainly fulfill part of the basic purpose of the sale," Mrs. William Kegel, 968 Madison, book sale public relations chairman.

fordshire. The Thorntons moved to this vicinity 13 years ago, from Beaver, Pa. They specialize in Americana and primitives which includes early lighting fixtures, and household items in copper, brass, iron and pewter. They also carry 18th century soft paste china which pre-dated Staffordshire.

Mrs. Ralph Garfield Jones from Cleveland Heights, Ohio, will have for sale her selected American antiques including glass, china, pewter, prints and hooked rugs as well as decorative accessories.

EARLY AMERICAN antiques are also being offered by H. Gregory Gulick, a dealer from Middletown, N. J., whose specialty is Bennington pottery and Sandwich overlay glass lamps.

Cups, banks, paper weights,

Latin glass and other early American antiques in general will be offered by Charles A. McMurray from Dayton, Ohio.

Fine furniture, so much in demand in country homes and the accessories that go with it, will be offered by Mildred B. Smart from nearby Rochester. Most of Mrs. Smart's buying is done in New England although she does stock a few pieces from the Pennsylvania Dutch, and offers some vintage furniture.

Robert Burkhardt whose mailing address is Kutztown, Pa., will be on hand to sell his Pennsylvania Dutch antiques, including early American furniture and china. He carries pattern glass in the best patterns, blown glass items, and historical and luster ceramics.

NEW EXHIBITORS for this year's show will be the Halbers of Lexington, Ky., who specialize in fine American and English antiques, and the Kennedy company of New York City who will offer prints for sale.

Sam Yeagley, manager of the Piety Hill Antique show, is making arrangements for two more exhibits, one on antique silver and the other on antique jewelry.

Mrs. Thomas R. Navin, general chairman of the show has named as committee chairman Mrs. Robert F. Kohn, program advertising.

Mrs. Don E. Dasher, housewife, Mrs. J. Vinton Birch, program cover, Mrs. Robert P. Watt, publicity, Mrs. Warren Pease, Jr., patroness, Mrs. Royce L. Beers, treasurer, Mrs. Clarence W. Wacker, tickets, Mrs. LeRoy Brantel, prizes and Mrs. J. R. Ackerman, hostess.

During the four days, the show will be open from 1 to 11 p.m.

MR. AND MRS. RAYMOND J. BABCOCK, 1849 Holland, are the parents of a new daughter, born Sept. 14, at the Detroit Osteopathic Hospital. Her name is Susanne Lynette.

MR. AND MRS. CLAYTON MARTIN, of Westwood Hills, Dearborn, are the parents of a boy, born Sept. 5, at Mt. Carmel Hospital, Detroit. The baby has been named Gary Allen.
