

Junior League Players Create Invisible Clown

The Junior League of Birmingham says it is deep in rehearsal for their spring production, "Ricky-Tick, the Invisible Clown." "Ricky-Tick" is the original creation of Jervis E. McMechan. Mrs. McMechan will complete the family team by acting as production manager of the presentation.

MRS. ROBERT Scripps is chairman of the project which will go "on the road" for two weeks in Oakland County before its opening performance in Birmingham.

After shows in hospitals, orphanages and children's homes, "Ricky-Tick" will arrive at the Community House May 9 for three performances: 11 a.m., 1:30 and 3 p.m.

Mrs. Rogers I. Marquis will direct the cast which includes the Mesdames Robert W. King, John R. Lakin, Everett E. Fisher, Robert P. Fick, William Long, Newton Skillman, Jr., and Miss Elise Day.

MAKING APPEL is the set design and Mrs. George Russell II is in charge of costumes. Props are being supervised by Mrs. John Kay Sogby, and Mrs. Robert Fife is handling the ticket sale.

St. Dunstan's 'Private Lives' Squares Triangle

The "eternal triangle" will become a "square" when Noel Goward's "Private Lives" takes the stage Friday, April 10, at the Cranbrook Pavilion.

Heading the cast of the St. Dunstan Guild production is Mrs. Zoltan Segessy who is cast as the hot-tempered "Armanda Pryne". The role of her husband, "Syd Chaud", will be enacted by W. H. Adams.

Completing the "square" will be Malcolm Denay and Mrs. Rudolph Eberstadt, Jr. Mrs. Frederick C. Pew, as the French maid, is the fifth member of the small cast, directed by Nathaniel Daughtry.

FOUR PERFORMANCES of "Private Lives" are scheduled for nine o'clock curtains the evenings of April 10-11, and 17-18. Mrs. Carl Meyer is in charge of tickets which may be purchased at Geinell's record counter or at the box-office.
