MRS. JOHN A. KARBOWSKI

Wears White Taffeta Gown For Double-Ring Nuptials

Patricia Jane Bloom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad T. Bloom of Eldorado Place, became the bride of John Anthony Karbowska of Wing Lake, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Karbowska of Midland, Mich., at a double-ring ceremony April 25.

The couple exchanged vows before the Rev. Richard Parish Saturday morning at Holy Name Church.

The bride's gown of shimmering white taffeta was designed with a deeply rounded décolletage set on a yoke of tulle and bordered in a floral motif with rose-patterned points de Leon lace.

A full skirt fell from a pointed waistline over a beaded petticoat to floor length. A princess coronet of pearl orange blossoms held in place a wisp-length veil of illusion, and the bride carried white stephanotis and iris with an orchid center.

CONSTANCE MITR of Grand Rapids was the honor attendant. She and bridesmaid Mary O'Connor were in floor-length gowns of peach blue taffeta and set with matching bolero jackets and handkerchiefs. They carried customary arrangements of pink roses and gladioli.

James Karbowska of Lansing was his brother's best man. Jack Wilson of Lapeere, Mich., and the bride's brother, Conrad T. Bloom, Jr., seated the guests.

A BREAKFAST reception at Bowford Inn immediately followed the ceremony. Mrs. Bloom greeted guests in a white length gown of fine silk marquisette and charmingly lace with a small flowered hat of pale pink and white accessories.

Mrs. Karbowska chose a waltz-length navy taffeta dress with white accessories. She and Mrs. Bloom wore orchid corsages.

Coming from a distance for the nuptials was the bride's grandmother, Mrs. E. W. Sanderson of Lake Charles, La. Others were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Shroyer of Wilton, Conn., and Mr. and Mrs. Albert
