MRS. JOHN BUTLER BARCOCK

Greenfield Village Chapel Scene of Saturday Nuptials

Nancy Truman Keyes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Tallman Keyes of Hazelwood avenue, and John Butler Barcock repeated their wedding vows late Saturday afternoon in the Martha Mary chapel, Greenfield Village, Dearborn.

The Rev. William Marchison of Christ Church Episcopalian officiated at the rites.

For the service, which was performed before members of the family and close friends, the bride chose a gown of antique satin with an oval neckline outlined in just embroidery. The ivory folds of her skirt fell from a close-fitting bustle back into a circular train. Hairloom rousings lace formed the bridal cap which held a fingertip veil of ivory illusion and the bride carried a white orchid with a shower of lilies-of-the-valley on her prayer book.

MRS. JOHN BONES was the bride's only attendant. Her pale blue silk taffeta gown was fashioned with a small shoulder jacket, and she wore a calot of the same shade. Purple violets formed her corsage.

The groom's brother, Howard Edward Babcock, Jr., came from his home in New Mexico to be the best man. Both sons of Mrs. Howard E. Babcock of Ithaca, N. Y., and the late Mr. Babcock.

The bride's brothers, Richard and Robert Keyes, served as ushers. Faye Elizabeth Smith was the youngest of her sister's nuptials.

A RECEPTION at Dearborn Inn followed the vows. Mrs. Keyes greeted guests in a gown of soft gray blue faille with a flower turtleneck in rose and lavender. Her flowers were rose capsaules.

Mrs. Babcock chose a costume of sapphire blue taffeta and a small hat of blue straw with velvet roses in a darker hue. She wore a white camellia corsage.

The newlyweds flew to Florida where they will remain until May 1 when they will return to Cellina, Ohio, to make their home. For traveling the bride donned a tailored suit in soft gray wool with a matching helmet hat veiled in gray. Her topcoat and accessories were in navy.
