

Real Estate Board Selects Committee

President Ralph Manuel of the Birmingham Real Estate Board appointed six members to the board meetings committee at the first meeting of the 1953 officers Tuesday, Jan. 6.

Under chairman Robert L. Moore will be John Chiers, Robert Eyer, Howard Keating, Jr., Cynthia Rice and Irene Tjarda to plan programs for the year.

The board of directors elected Clyde C. Bennett, now retired and living in Deland, Fla., to an honorary membership for his past work in real estate in the Birmingham area.

The first meeting of the membership Jan. 19 at the Community House will bring Horace Carpenter, Jr., to discuss the J. L. Hudson's "Northland" development, of which Carpenter is vice-president and general manager.

New copy submitted early necessarily is given preference over late items. So the "Early Bird" usually gets the space.

Mr. James J. Carson, U.S.N. son of Mr. and Mrs. James K. Carson, 2112 Yorkshire, graduated from Naval Officers' Candidate school in Newport, R. I. December 23. A Baldwin high school graduate, Carson graduated from Albion College and was attending the Detroit College of Law when he entered service in August of last year. With his wife, Carol, he will leave for duty in San Diego, Calif., soon.

To Explain Fund Needs Prior to ARC Campaign

Home service committee members of the Oakland County Red Cross chapter agreed last week to help explain the Red Cross program and fund needs to their communities.

Representing Birmingham at the meeting were Dr. John S. Lambie, 280 Aspen; Mrs. George W. McCormick, 673 N. Elton and Mrs. Hugh McClesse, 4975 Brookdale.

Plans have been made for the creation of a speakers' bureau which will appear without charge, before any organization requesting further information on Red Cross work.

Mr. P. S. Johnson of Pleasant Ridge, headed the discussion at Pontiac, to discuss ways and means to help the Red Cross fund campaign slated to get underway on March 1.

SAFETY COLORS FOR HUNTING

A new report has just been issued by the state of Pennsylvania after an exhaustive research of the "best" colors for maximum hunting safety. This seemed a logical step because Pennsylvania's 850,000 hunters came up with 411 dead and injured by gunfire in the hunting field in 1951. The great majority of the casualties occurred because the shooter did not see the man who was to fall victim to his gun.

Color Study Begun

The question was simple: What could be done to make a hunter immediately recognizable against any background, or have him stand out so prominently that he could never be mistaken for game? The answer wasn't so simple. Red clothing had been recommended for years. But this was not enough. How much red? What shade of red? Does red still look red at long range, or in wet weather, or at all times of the year in foliage changing with the seasons? Would some other color offer better year-round protection?

A wide variety of colors and patterns of colors came into the study. All shades of reds, oranges, yellows, black and white checks went under test. Included were those new daylight fluorescent colors.

A Birmingham resident, Mort Neff's show appears every Thursday at 7:00 p.m. over station WWJ-TV.

known as "Day-Glo" or "Caldire." Hunters wearing caps and jackets of these colors were paraded in front of all kinds of natural backgrounds. Colored movies were run for continuing study. The results begin to look conclusive and may soon set a new trend in hunting apparel in all states.

Fluorescent Colors Win

The daylight fluorescent colors, especially orange and red, were four times as bright as ordinary orange or red under poor light conditions. Actually these colors appeared brighter than ever in deep shade such as might ordinarily be encountered in the hunting field.

The fluorescent colors maintained their identity at long range, contrasting sharply with all backgrounds. These colors are not simulated by any mammal or bird in our forests, and are therefore completely distinctive.

The day may come, and soon, when most states with any degree of hunter concentration may legislate in favor of the "Caldire" apparel, both as an outside jacket, and a cap of the same material. Some of this type of cloth was used by Michigan hunters this year, and it was obviously the most effective color afield. This we're making strides toward greater safety for hunters in Michigan outdoors.

Oops! The Stork Did Us Dirt! Catherine Ellen Was First 1953 Baby

Well, "first honors" go to the girls, anyway.

The Eccentric has been informed that the first 1953 baby is Catherine Ellen Coake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney C. Coale of 726 Bates, not Nancy Ann Stinson as reported last week.

According to information in our hands last week at press time, Nancy Ann, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Fred Stinson, 1111 Bird, was the first.

SINCE THEN, Mr. and Mrs. Coale have informed us that Catherine Ellen arrived at St. Joseph Mercy hospital at 8:25 a.m., on Jan. 2, beating Nancy Ann's time by one day.

Since for the past several years boys have held this "honor," we're at least happy that the title remains in the capable hands of the young ladies.
