Wing Lake-Foxcroft News

The summer social season appears to be in full creosote, having been punctuated with numerous cocktail parties, dinners and assorted activities during the past week.

Largest and most brilliant of recent social gatherings was the cocktail-buffet dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. Edington at their Wing Lake road home on the evening of July 8. The host and hostess greeted their guests informally, among whom were Mrs. Richard H. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. LaBelle, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence S. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cavell, Mrs. Edward A. Proctor, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Walker, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Driesen, all of Wing Lake.

Chatting over cocktails on the cool terraces were other localities Mr. and Mrs. Robert Knight, Mr. and Mrs. Parbury Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. James O. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mink, Mr. and Mrs. David Pittman, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Lawrence and Mr. and Mrs. John A. Roberts.

OTHER conversational groups mingling in the long, traditional rooms were Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Aldredge, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. James Sidway, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Tappan, Mr. and Mrs. T. Ledyard Shademan, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn James, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Stevens, of Birmingham and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones, of Berkeley.

The occasion marked the twenty-third wedding anniversary of the Edingtons.

The calendar has been quite crowded of late for Mr. and Mrs. Elwood P. Engel, of Wing Lake road. They have been entertaining friends from Europe, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Dickelman, of Zurich, Switzerland, who were house guests for several days last week. The Dickelmans, no strangers to the famed Swiss lake country, were particularly impressed with the beauty of Wing Lake and surrounding areas, as were Mr. and Mrs. Hans Jorg Kuhn, also of Switzerland, who visited the Engels a few months ago.

THEY WERE somewhat puzzled, however, at what seemed to be several American inconsistencies, one of which was why haircuts in the Wall Street section of New York should be sixty-five cents, and in Detroit a dollar fifty, much to the amusement of their host.

Others with equally busy schedules are the Walter G. Steckers of Wing Lake road. Over the recent holiday and ensuing week they hosted Dr. and Mrs. William Wallace of Riverside, Calif., Mr. Stanton Richter, of Glendale, Calif., and Mr. Ross A. Fife, of Newtown, Conn. In addition to celebrating Independence Day at the Pine Lake Country Club with the foursome, the Steckers also entertained at cocktail Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hartman and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Moore, both of Birmingham.

PEGGY SWANTON, who will have the lead in "Boy Meets Girl" opening July 21 at Will-O-Way Playhouse, Bloomfield Hills, has not one avocation but two. The young blonde housewife from Fraser is equally ambitious for dramatic and literary careers. She has been spending her spare time writing fiction under the critical eyes of her husband and seven-year-old son. So far only rejection slips, but the Swanton family is full of confidence. Incidentally, those local theatergoers who are wondering what is evoking such excitement out at the Long Lake road playhouse had better plan to catch "Burn Yesterday", current comedy at Will-O-Way.

For the past month Mr. and Mrs. Louis W. Norman, of Worlington road, have been enjoying the bright company of two young nieces, Miss Frances Hume, age 13, of Grand Rapids, who guested for three weeks, and Miss Mary Margaret Hume, age 10, who preceded her for a ten-day stay at Wing Lake.

LAST SATURDAY evening the Normans participated in a family reunion in Detroit, honoring the 70th birthday of Mrs. Frank W. Bogler, mother of Mrs. Norman. The occasion, attended by guests from Saginaw and other out-of-town points, was given at the Muir and Avenue home of Mrs. B. P. Costello and co-hosted by Mrs. Norman.

Another birthday festivity occurred on a recent weekend at the Worlington road home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fayer. A warm cocktail and dinner party feting the natal day of Mr. Fraser was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stecker, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Engel, of Wing Lake, and Mrs. Lambert Splaine, of Birmingham.

THE WING Lake Property Owners Association has announced the launching of a new community boat on Wing Lake. Also other completed projects now in operation across new causeway and a newly repaired bridge across the inlet. Recently elected officers of the association are Parbury Schmidt, president, James O. Wright, secretary and Floyd Schneider, treasurer.

Carry Lane wore a festive air over the weekend. Beach and cocktail parties were given by Mr. and Mrs. Loren Nall, Mrs. Thomas C. Carey, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Leaf. Also entertaining guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd H. Stephens.
