This week saw the return of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Rogers and their year-old son, David, from a two-month trip to England, where they visited Mrs. Rogers' parents, Mrs. Rogers said that while they loved every minute of the flight over and back, they found it particularly thrilling to be in England at the time of the coronation and to enjoy many of the attendant festivities. Since, on Coronation Day, the weather was so very bad, they settled for television, but they found time later to visit St. James Palace where the coronation robes of the royal family were on display. While in England, Mrs. Rogers became very interested in a group called "Transatlantic Brides Association," which has been formed by parents of those brides. One of the main interests of this group is to promote visits between British brides in this country and their parents in England.

The Light Look

The trend is toward furniture that is raised from the floor. Here cases are lifted from the floor by carefully tapered legs, giving a light feeling to the furniture. Brass ferrules are used on legs for decorative contrast. Footboard on bed contains storage compartment for two blankets. The wood is mahogany. Finish on group shown is called "Paw". For those who prefer a darker finish, the same group is available in a cordovan finish. (United Furniture Corporation).

Shirley Ostermeyer Wed on Fourth

Saturday, July the Fourth, was chosen by Shirley Ostermeyer and Hubert N. Hagley for their double-ring wedding ceremony in the Eveningmanuel Evangelist Church, Royal Oak.

For her evening wear the bride, Miss Shirley Ostermeyer, wore a Bannville street and the late Mrs. Ostermeyer, chose white satin and Chantilly lace with a tangerine veil.

She carried white carnations and ivy.

Mrs. Harold Noppin, the matron of honor, was dressed in a ballerina length blue dress which she accented with a bouquet of yellow carnations and blue delphinium. In yellow ballroom gowns were bridesmaids Beverly Ostermeyer, the sister of the bride, and Barbara Harper. Their flowers were blue carnations and blue delphinium.

THE GROOM, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hughey of Franklin, asked Harold Noppin to be the best man. The bride's brother, Donald Ostermeyer, and James Renelle were ushers.

When the newlyweds left on their wedding trip the bride changed to a white and red organza dress with white accessories. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Hagley will reside in Birmingham.
