Dr. Robert Hatt Endorses AAUW Museum Project

An informal talk by Dr. Robert Hatt of the Cranbrook Institute of Science highlighted the last meeting of the season for members of the Birmingham branch of the American Association of University Women. The group gathered for a picnic at the Vaughan road home of Mrs. Irving H. MacKenzie on June 10.

Dr. Hatt's topic, "Children in Museums," appraised the program begun last fall by the local AAUW in establishing a grant at the Cranbrook Institute of Science for a lecture series for Birmingham school children.

Dr. Hatt reported that a great number of children have visited the museum under the "Cranbrook Project" and have been conducted by Doris McMillan.

MRS. McMILLAN began the study of botany as a hobby and has taken courses under the University of Michigan Extension program. A member of the Detroit Audubon Society and the Michigan Botanical Society, she was engaged by the AAUW last fall to stimulate interest in the out-of-doors among local students.

Dr. Hatt endorsed the program which will be enlarged next year to include more specimens and an astronomical demonstration. The AAUW again allocated funds for the project.

CHILDREN WANTED!

at 261 Clifton Road, Bloomfield Village

I'm looking for a large family. Nothing less than three or four children will make me happy!

My spacious rooms were planned for fun and romping; and for "sleepy heads" I have six bedrooms and four baths under my roof.

I'm in a nice, big, park-like setting of fine maple trees where it's safe for children to play, only a short bike ride to the best of grade schools. Three minutes walk for Mother's maid to the West Maple bus.

For Dad, the taxes are low. Everyone says I'm a bargain at $37,500 including carpets in the living room, dining-room and hall. Drive by, look me over and then for an appointment call.
