Rolph Carey Takes Bride Saturday in New England

Lois Pigeon Wyman, daughter of Washington, D. C. and Wolfeboro, N. H., became the bride of Rolph Donald Carey in two-block services Saturday afternoon, June 20, at the Congregational Church of Wolfeboro.

The groom is the son of Frederick A. Carey of Dorchester road and the late Mrs. Carey.

THE BRIDE asked Brenda Howe of Wolfeboro to be her maid of honor, and Mrs. Bruce D. Carey of Grosse Pointe, Joan Gloor of Detroit, Marietta Pratt of Mirror

Lake, N. H., and Holly Goodhue of Wolfeboro, to serve as bridesmaids. Bruce D. Carey was his brother's best man. Ushers included Josh Farrag of Grand Rapids, James Matthews of Flint, and Harry Marston of Detroit, all Delta Tau Delta fraternity brothers of the groom, Rodney Roome of Baltimore, Md., also seated the guests.

THE BRIDE'S ballerina-length gown featured a tiered skirt and a lace bodice with a scoop neckline and three quarter sleeves. She wore a fingertip veil attached to a matching lace cap, and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white roses and stephanotis surrounding white orchids.

Mrs. Howe was in a yellow ballerina gown of silk parchment with a halter neckline and a bolero jacket. In similar gowns of Nile green were the bridesmaids, and all attendants carried old-fashioned bouquets of summer flowers.

THE SEWELL road home of the bride's parents in Wolfeboro was the scene of the reception which followed the vows. After a honeymoon in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., the newlyweds will summer in Bay View, Michigan. They will resume their studies at Albion College in the fall.
