Alumni Honor Raymond Perring At Award Dinner

Raymond T. Perring, Yarboro road, Bloomfield Hills, president of the Detroit Bank, will be honored at the Wayne University Alumni Reunion to be held Saturday, May 9, in the Sheraton Cadillac Hotel, Detroit.

Perring will be presented an Alumni Award for outstanding service and achievement during a 7 p.m. dinner by Dr. Clarence B. Hilberry, acting president of Wayne. Four other alumni also will receive awards during this 85th Anniversary of the founding of Wayne. This is the third year Alumni Awards have been granted by the Wayne Alumni Association.

Perring graduated from Wayne's College of Liberal Arts with an A. B. degree in 1926. In 1927 he recived his M.B.A. from the University of Michigan.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

Bird Residents Thoroughly Sick Of 'Rural' Mud

To the Editor:

I would like to write about the condition that exists in the forgotten end of Birmingham—by that I mean Bird street, between Edgewood and Pierce and rightfully named "Mudville."

The City of Birmingham claims children of this fair city are one of their first thoughts, but when one sees the mud and waller on Bird and children falling in the mud going to school, we cannot help but wonder if they are very much concerned.

The city charged us for oiling and grading Bird but so far they just go down the middle of the street, making it convenient for everyone except the people who live in that block—they still have to park their cars a block away and walk home during the muddy season and everyone knows that's a long time here on Bird!

* * *

WHY DO WE have to pay for oiling and grading when the job is only half done? Isn't there some way the engineering department can figure out to get rid of some of this water? A sewer in the proper place, might help, and grading the whole street not just the center!

Also, sidewalks are half in and half out. Children couldn't possibly roller skate in this block. Edgewood, between Bird and 14 Mile, has no sidewalk at all. People going to the little church on 14 Mile and Edgewood, have to jump the puddles and eventually fall in another one.

Why can't we get some sewers and sidewalks in this forgotten area so we won't have to argue to convince our friends that we live in the City of Birmingham and not in the township?

BIRD STREET TAXPAYER

Thanks Birmingham For Netherlands Flood Relief Aid

To the Editor:

The city clerk of our city has just transmitted to me a check for $459.51 for the Holland Flood Relief, after the Birmingham committee had already transmitted an amount of a little under $2,000 directly to the relief committee at Grand Rapids.

All this is a wonderful demonstration of the good heart of the citizens of Birmingham, a demonstration of international brotherhood in the time of great need. I think it is all the more remarkable, as our Detroit committee has been able to collect altogether an amount of over $85,000, and many Birmingham residents have directly, or indirectly, contributed to this fine result.

* * *

WITH ALL THE above contributions Metropolitan Detroit took third place among all American cities, with only New York and Grand Rapids leading.

Great thanks are due, especially to the executives of the Detroit Edison company in Birmingham, to Richard Patterson and to all the other good friends who have so splendidly cooperated.

EUGENE HESS, Treasurer,
Detroit Committee for Netherlands Flood Relief.

Eccentric Award Cited By University Editor

To the Editor:

Congratulations on the award received by The Birmingham Eccentric from the National Editorial Association. It is always nice to hear of recognition won by deserving newspapers, especially when they are in Michigan.

Arthur L. Prediani, director of University Relations, joins me in this note of congratulations and good wishes.

Officers Participate In Grosse Ile Review

Participating in the annual Military Review at the inspection of Grosse Ile Naval Air Station May 3 will be Lt. James C. Everett, 1805 Stanley, executive officer of Fighter Squadron 735, and LCDR Hames M. Mason, Jr., 964 Kennesaw, executive officer, Fleet Air Service Squadron 731.

The review will follow a day-long program of inspection for the naval base. Owen J. Geary, Michigan secretary of state, will be the main speaker at ceremonies following the review.

"OFF-THE-JOB" PROTECTION
People hurt at their work are assured medical care and financial aid under Compensation laws. The costs of an "off-the-job" accident are your own responsibility, however. That's why you should have Non-Occupational Accident Insurance. It will pay your medical bills and help replace wages lost while you're laid up.
