New Scout Troops Sought For Area

A meeting to encourage formation of additional Boy Scout troops in the Birmingham-Bloomfield area has been called for Tuesday night, Oct. 20, at the Community House.

Twelve organizations from service clubs, churches and schools have been invited to the dinner meeting sponsored by the Birmingham Lions Club to study the possibility of opening scout work to more boys in the area.

Local scout officials contend that of the 905 boys of age in this area only 323 are members of troops because of the lack of organizations.

Seven troops are now meeting and officials hope to raise this number nearer 20. Scout leaders estimate that 1150 boys will be eligible for the scouts within the next three years.

The organizations will be briefed on the opportunities of scouting and advised how they can help in forming new troops.

Want ads cannot be accepted after 5 p.m. each Tuesday.
