

Child Needs Place in Home That Actually Is His Own

The younger set—from the age of 6 to 18—need a place in the home that they can call their own. Up till now they seem to have been neglected and much abused with hand-me-downs, small bedrooms, or possibly sharing a room with an older person.

They need a place in the home where they can have privacy, comfort and something really different in the way of furniture. A place to entertain friends, work and play. A place where they have helped in the selection of furniture to meet their needs and tastes.

Furniture selection should be considered with great thought before any buying is done. Modern furniture that features built-in sections or stacking pieces is most practical because it can "grow" in height as the child gets older and taller.

BOOKCASES that line a wall will aid in training children to be neat, as everything that would normally be carefully placed on a chair or bed will have its own place.

Chairs scaled to the size of the children, and of sturdy construction to stand the "wear-and-tear" of a pool, yet provide "on the floor" seating to groups of friends. Plan a cork pin-up board so that the child can display his own efforts and keep interesting pictures.

It can later be moved up on the wall and utilized by teen-agers for the ever-changing "heart throb," dance programs, and clippings which reflect their developing interests and personalities.

MAYBE STRICTLY modern furniture isn't exactly what you had in mind. Traditional, colonial and provincial styles can make interesting rooms too. The contemporary forms of these styles, will provide you with practically the same features that modern design boasts.

As long as the room is comfortable and convenient, and gives the child a feeling of privacy, you can choose any type of furniture that "fills the bill" to give the younger set what they want.

MRS. JOSEPH STEMLER

Peggy Labadie Married Saturday at Holy Name

Marguerite Labadie and Joseph Stempler were united in marriage Saturday, Oct. 10, at 11 a.m. The Rev. Eugene E. Paddock heard the wedding vows before 200 guests at Holy Name Church.

For the double ring ceremony, Peggy chose a bridal gown with bodice of chantilly lace over silk faille with a bouffant skirt. Her veil of illusion gathered into a headpiece trimmed with embroidered flowers and seed pearls.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Suzanne, who wore a champagne ballerina length gown of taffeta trimmed in matching nylon net with brown accessories. Her flowers were baby mums shading from gold to bronze.

BEST MAN was Ronald Savage of Chicago. Usher was Gene O. Coie of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Dwigth Labadie, brother of the bride. Peggy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Labadie of Thurber road, Wieg Lake. Her mother wore a cocktail suit in blue silk shantling with matching hat and gloves and a corsage of pale pink orchids. Joseph, who comes from Chicago, Ill., is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Stempler. Following a reception at the home of her parents, Peggy changed to a costume suit of vermilion wool jersey with navy accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet. The couple will live in Detroit when they return from a motor trip through New England and Washington, D. C.
