TV STAR DAVE GARROWAY (second from left) was a recent visitor in Bloomfield Hills to make final arrangements for his new night-time network television show which will be sponsored by Pontiac dealers and seen in Detroit over WWJ-TV Friday nights beginning Oct. 2 at 8 p.m. Garroway spent a busy two days conferring with officials on the

Bonnie Brier Bushes Raise A Controversy

Residents of Bonnie Brier and streets adjacent in Birmingham seem to have mixed emotions about the shrubs and trees that are in the center of the street. When the city commission last week agreed with Mrs. Ada Moore, 833 Harmon, that the shrubs were unsightly and should be removed, other residents raised a storm of protest.

Monday night the commission received a petition to spare the greenery which was signed by recent residents of Bonnie Brier and connecting streets.

"THE TREES and shrubs add a most natural and pleasing appearance to the north end of Bonnie Brier," said the petitioners. They even offered to assume the responsibility of keeping the plants in trim.

The commission delayed its final judgment in the matter until it can give the controversy more attention at the meeting next Monday night.

Commission Turns Down Free Dumping Request

Colonial Court Terraces has been denied its request for a free permit to unload rubbish at the city dump.

The city commission denied the request on the grounds that if the Colonial Terraces were allowed to dump rubbish free of charge, the courtesy would have to be extended to everyone else.
