Drug Store Owner Gives Police Assist In Suspects Capture
An alert druggist was responsible for the arrest of a suspected bad-check artist Monday when he remembered the description of a wanted man and called police.

Police arrested Jack W. Kellogg, 53, of Detroit. Police say he has cashed $240 in worthless checks in Birmingham in the past three months.

Richard Wilson of the Wilson Drug store, 101 N. Woodward, called Kellogg in his store and spotted police.

Kellogg was turned over to state police who were holding a bad-check warrant for him, according to Detective Sgt. Holmquist. Holmquist said Kellogg is wanted in several states and also as a parole violator from San Quentin prison, Calif.

Trial Adjourned
