The activities of the Girl Scouts of Troop 372, Quarton school, began this fall with a cookout at Highland recreation area, where the girls followed a nature trail and gathered leaves for study and for leaf prints.

On Nov. 2 they took a trip to the International Book show at the Detroit Historical museum. Nov. 16 they celebrated the troop birthday with a party when each girl baked a cake. Barbara Wanslock was invested as a Girl Scout and the other scouts were given membership stars. Their current project is doll clothes to dress Goodfellows dolls.
