'Scandal' Rehearsals Go Into Final Stages

Rehearsal of the Village Players on Jan. 17, was a family affair, really, and could be called "a real long day". The session started at 3 p.m. and continued until late evening.

In spite of the seriousness of getting "The Little Scandal" on the boards as a successful invitation play, the day's affairs were highlighted by one of Maude Mack's baked bean dinners with the director, Mrs. Robert F. Tillotson as hostess.

Husbands, wives and children of cast members were guests at the dinner and pressed into service as the audience and critics during the evening performance.

The day also marked the first of two long Sunday rehearsals of the Byerson-Miller comedy before the Jan. 29, 30 show dates.

Mrs. Robert C. Wyatt is playing the role of Angela Pettigrew, central character of the play, who returns after two years as a UN commission secretary brings a hard-to-explain infant and a "little Scandal" into her tiny, placid old home town.

SHE HAS as supporting players Mrs. George S. Dix, Elliot W. Higgins and Robert Miller, the other members of the Pettigrew family. John E. Hall, rising young diplomat and the man Angela is to marry fills out the supporting principals and joins the girl's family in their period of confusion and embarrassment.

Others in the cast include Mrs. Chester A. Hard, Jr., a Girl Scout leader; Miss Kay Hyland, 10 year old bugler in the troop and Mrs. William L. Martin as her mother, a gossip neighbor.

THE BABY-RING racketeer and his "smell" are played by William L. Martin and Mrs. Dorothy A. Cain.

Douglas A. Brown plays the role of the baby's real father while Anthony J. Daley and Wallace R. Ivers are the state troopers.

Mrs. William H. Spinning, ticket chairman, lists her reservations committee as Mrs. Richard H. Adams, Mrs. George H. Fox, Mrs. Harris O. Machus, Mrs. Howard C. McDonald, Mrs. Edward E. Cooner and Mrs. Harry Wisting.

The door staff includes Mrs. Merton J. Bell, Mrs. Russell M. Richardson, Mrs. Kariton W. Pierce, Mrs. Herbert K. Poppleton, Mrs. Joseph F. Wright and Mrs. Vern C. Markley, Sr.

Mrs. Spinning said reservations are now being taken for members and their guests.
