St. Dunstan's Cast Studies Police Work

The forthcoming production of St. Dunstan's Guild is practically creating a second police force for the area because members of the "Detective Story" cast are striving for authenticity.

The entire cast spent a recent Sunday afternoon at the Birmingham police department, unofficial guests of Police Chief Ralph W. Moxley. Moxley and on-duty officers gave instructions in the fine points of modern police work. They were shown the department's crime detection methods along with instructions in fingerprinting, photographing crime scenes and the duties of a police department in maintaining law and order in a community.

SINCE THE entire action of the play takes place in the offices of a New York precinct detective

Matinee to Open Teen-Age Theater First Production

With action centered in an old farm house on the Canadian side of the St. Lawrence river, "The Happy Days," first production of Sara Strengell's Teen-Age Theater Workshop will be presented at the Birmingham Community House on Feb. 6. Two performances are planned with a 2:30 p.m. matinee and another show at 8:30 p.m.

Miss Strengell said this Andrus Page play is not identical with one of a similar name and setting, "The Happy Times."
The Workshop production has been staged professionally in Paris and later on Broadway where Diana Barrymore played the lead. Sharing leading roles in the current play will be Judith Goldstein and Nancy Cornell, doubling on the part of "Francine." Katherine Glaser and Carole Losser will take over the role of "Marianne" on the same basis.

OTHERS IN the cast are Tom Grove, Linda Lewis, Robert Ehrlich and Richard Alan.
The play is the story of what happens to six children, left alone in the farm house for three days.

Miss Strengell said, "Many of the young people in the group are already showing marked talent. Some have had previous experience by playing parts in school productions."
The local production is being staged under the sponsorship of the Birmingham Civitan club.
