Seeking Better Public Program

Public relations was the subject under consideration when the American Society of Social Workers of Oakland held their monthly luncheon meeting Jan. 22 at the Birmingham Community House.

A panel of Dwight Adams from the United Foundations office in Pontiac; Robert Tarr of the Pontiac Daily Press, and Hugh Munce from MacManus, John and Adams, advertising agency, discussed public relations problems.

Adams said he felt the public was not completely informed of social workers' activities and that a better program in this field would bring about a clearer understanding of their aims and problems.

Tarr answered, saying it was his belief that the very nature of the work kept a great deal of information from the public, to which Munce expressed his agreement.

"YOU ARE so dedicated to your job", Munce commented, "that you do not publicize yourselves as much as you could and should.

"Nearly every avenue of public information is open to you if you will only ask. Newspapers, magazines, radio and television would serve you if they knew you wanted them to.

"This may hurt, but in many instances those seeking data for the public have been rebuffed by your workers. You need to get yourselves a champion, and use that person to the fullest."

Tarr told the group that they must stop thinking that social workers are not being thought too highly of by the public.

"THAT MAY have been true years ago," he said, "but today is not. This is especially true of the good work you are doing in rehabilitation, family service and with juveniles.

"You must throw off this attitude which has been carried over from the past and face the future as a constructive, public-sponsored group doing the best job you can.

"You also must remember that since you are public-sponsored, the public has every right to know what you are doing and how you are spending their money."

One worker brought up the problem of confidential treatment for the persons they are helping.

MUNCE REPLIED, "I doubt that you will find any public relations agency in the country which will override your wishes in this field. They do not, contrary to a lot of thinking, wish to embarrass any person or group just for the sake of news.

"Furthermore, it is my belief that if you let the public in on your actions, you will be able to kill much of the so-called suspicion under which you feel you are laboring.

"Learn to regard yourselves as professionals, cultivate a deep pride in your work, and then set out to sell the profession, not just the service you offer."

Join in Marking Anniversaries

Sunday, Jan. 31, will mark two anniversaries of both national and local organizations, both devoted to youth work.

The Birmingham YMCA and National Junior Achievement, Inc., celebrate birthdays at the end of this month. Sunday will end a week of observance by YMCA groups nationally while Sunday will open a week of recognition for the JA organizations.

Locally, churches in this area will pay tribute to the work of the YMCA movement during Sunday services. No special program is planned at the Birmingham branch.

The YMCA program was founded 102 years ago by a drapery clerk in London, England, George Williams, who was later knighted by Queen Victoria for his Christian service.

THE MOVEMENT first started in this country in 1851. Captain Thomas V. Sullivan, retired skipper turned missionary began the youth activities in the U. S. in Boston.

Today the YMCA of North America alone totals gymnasium and swimming pool attendances of over 30,000,000 at its 600 branches, and its hobby clubs, religious classes and related activities acount for attendances up to 73,000,000. The Y also operates 17 colleges attended by 85,000 men and women.

Meanwhile, the Birmingham organization of the Junior Achievement program will celebrate its first observance of Junior Achievement Week, January 30-February 6. A member of the Junior Achievement of Southeastern Michigan, Inc., the local group began a JA program last fall when eight local firms were opened.

COMPANIES and their sponsors here who will join in the celebration are Compac Table company, Wabeek State Bank; J. A. Enterprises, Ford Tractor Division; J-Ad company, Keller-Koch, Inc.; J. A. Producers, Birmingham Rotary club; Jamco, Detrex corporation; Jun. Ach. Products, Birmingham National Bank; Aqua Lamp company, Ford Tractor Division; and Panda Products, The Birmingham Eccentric.

Southfield May Appeal Ruling

In an abbreviated meeting cut short by the absence of Supervisor William Roeser, the Southfield township board agreed to file a notice of appeal with the Michigan Supreme Court asking a review of a case lost by the township this month over land-fill dumping operations at Plum Hollow Golf Club.

It was the only action taken by the board Tuesday night as members voted to table all other items on the agenda for the return of Roeser who is attending a conference of township supervisors in Lansing.

In a ruling by Oakland County Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty, the court found that restrictions of the township garbage and rubbish disposal ordinance were "invalid and confiscatory" as applied to intended land-fill operations at the golf club.

OFFICERS AT the club sought township approval to dump rubbish picked up in the city of Detroit into a marshy hollow at the rear of the club house to reclaim this land.

The Southfield board ruled against this and passed a rubbish ordinance to support their beliefs. One of the prime reasons given by board members upon refusing to grant the dumping permit concerned truck traffic that supposedly would use Lahser road six days a week for two years.

Other items of nuisance also were pointed to by the board, and the club asked the Oakland county court for a writ of mandamus against the township's ruling.

Township officials Tuesday night were undecided on the course of action to take when they learned that it would cost an estimated $1,200 to take the appeal to the state's highest court.

THEY DID, however, agree to file their intentions to seek an appeal, an action that is required to be taken within 20 days of the county court's decision.

Board members also learned that it would probably be sometime in October of this year before the appeal could be heard.

The board intends to relate the court's action to members of the Southfield Citizen's Committee and ask their advice in fighting the case further.

The golf club land lies within boundaries of Southfield Park, an area that already has filed petitions for incorporation.

Cigarette Topic Judged As Best

The Birmingham Toastmasters Club selected Donald Fleischmann this week's winner in the club's annual speech contest. Fleischmann's speech entitled "Loaded Twenty," was an insight in advertising claims of cigarette manufacturers and a plea for moderation for smokers.

John Adams' "Meet Mr. Fario," won second place, telling of fly fishing for the scrappy rainbow trout (salmo fario). "It's Your Problem," was the title selected by Rollin Gish for a speech in which the responsibility of the general public was pointed up in the solution of parental as well as juvenile delinquency.

Ray McCullough spoke on the subject, "What's Ahead in Air Conditioning," the prospects for the future of home air conditioning systems. Peter Stoffel made a humorous speech on "A Bit of Fantasy", suggesting the dubious wisdom of making money by invading the present monopoly held by the United States Government.

Table topics of the evening, where impromptu speech is featured, were under the direction of William McCravey who offered for discussion by the membership, "What Advice Would You Give Today's High School Graduate?" Winner of the "Oratoreador" trophy was Houston Jones, who suggested that young graduates look beyond earning capacity to living capacity.

Wilson Cagers Continue to Win

Wilson Pontiac Zippers experienced no difficulty in defeating Fawcett Automatic Heating 51 to 19 in the Birmingham YMCA League to finish undefeated in the first half of the League play. Their record is six wins and no defeats.

Bob Folin and Skip Halpin tossed in 19 points between them to set the scoring pace. The Zippers held the Fawcett Five scoreless in the second quarter and built up a 27 to 11 half-time lead.

Riteway Water Softener came from behind to defeat Emmanuel Baptist church 31 to 29 in a nip and tuck game. Riteway led throughout the second half but was never more than four points ahead at any one time. Earl Mudge with 11 points took scoring honors for the victors while Bob Grant with 10 markers led Emmanuel Baptist's attack.

Starting the second half of play Thursday, Jan. 28, 1954, Emmanuel Baptist takes on Wilson Pontiac at 7 p.m. at Barnum Junior High. Riteway Water Softener opposes Fawcett Automatic Heating at 8 p.m. The public is invited to witness these games.

Larceny Conviction Brings Prison Term

Convicted on a charge of larceny by conversion from Dean Coffin, Inc., 348 E. Maple, where he was formerly manager, Robert L. Harris, 28, was sentenced to 1½ to five years in prison Monday by Oakland County Circuit Judge H. Russel Holland.

Harris was arrested in April 1953 on a charge of having pocketed a customer's $760 payment for a home freezer.

He stated he has been living in Flint while awaiting sentence.
