Traffic Safety Class Features Television Star

Guest speaker at the Feb. 3 session of the Troy traffic safety class will be Olin Griswold, retired veteran of 35 years with the Detroit police department.

Griswold, who has been active in Detroit traffic safety during the past nine years, presently is conducting the TV program "Fly-out Safety Eye," built around motion pictures taken from the dashboard of an automobile while on the Detroit streets.

The pictures are unrehearsed and point up safe as well as unsafe driving.

Griswold said he will be able to show the Troy class some of the pictures taken for TV.

TROY JUSTICE of the peace Herbert W. Alden, largely responsible for the Troy Safety class invites the general public to attend the Feb. 3 class which will begin promptly at 7:30 p.m. at the Troy township hall, Wattles road at Livernals.

Traffic violators found guilty in Troy courts are required to attend one or more of the classes as part of their sentences.

In addition to the general class session, a "Good Driver of the Month" award will be presented to some safe driver observed during the month.

Den Five Members Give Musical Skit

Among the skits presented by Pack B-14 at the January meeting held at Townside Community church hall, Lathrup, was a surprise musical by Den 5. The boys, including Larry Fishahler, Bill Starkey, Tony Yocum, Danny Orter, Ted Mallon, and Kent Cady, built a real snow-man on stage while they sang a peppy rendition of "Frosty the Snowman."

Then Frosty, (Kent Cady) danced in the traditional manner when the magical top hat was placed on his head. David Krone-meyer, Den leader, handled the curtains, and assisted off-stage.

Wolf badges were earned in January by Larry Fishahler and Tony Yocum.

VISIBLE PROOF that Birmingham is a "reading" town is evidenced by Mrs. Ralph Manuel, 735 Oakleigh, Bloomfield township, as she leaves Baldwin Public Library with one of her customary loads of books. Miss Jeanne Lloyd, head librarian, said an average of 7.96 books per person was borrowed from the library during 1953. "This figure," commented Miss Lloyd, "is well above the national average. Most of our other Baldwin library statistics are above national averages, too." (Eccentric Staff Photo)
