

Smile A Minute fish.
Talkative Lady: "A Big man Angler: "Perhaps you're right like you might be better occupied But if this fish had kept his mouth than in cruelty catching little shut, he wouldn't be here."

PROSCENIUM CLUB MEMBERS had a rough time at their "dress" rehearsal for "Daniel Boone" last week—no costumes. Through a mixup in time schedules, the cast showed up, but the costumes didn't. Finally, enough pioneer shirts and dresses, raccoon hats and Indian head-dresses were rounded up to begin rehearsing act one. Pictured standing from left are Lynn Buckner as Fanny Appleby; Dave Giddings as Col. Appley; Walter Herdrich as Daniel Boone; Jim Gillen as Wildcat; (seated) Carole Burns as Jimema and Janice Cooper as Mrs. Hancock. The play will be presented in morning and afternoon performances on Friday, Jan. 29, at the Birmingham Theater.

News About GIRL SCOUTS

TROOP 332-VAUGHAN
New officers for this troop are: Patricia Morse, chairman; Karen Corley, treasurer and Susan Chatterton, troop scribe. Instead of their usual meeting on Jan. 19, the girls had a skating party in front of the Chatterton home on Pine Lake. Cocoa and cookies were served to the skaters when they came in off the ice.

TROOP 385—PIERCE
Mrs. Mitchell Gould, mother of one of the Scouts and also a nurse, has been giving first aid lessons to the troop. Future plans for the Children's Bazaar to read to the children and play games. The girls are having a very worthwhile and enjoyable experience and are now anxious to visit the library and get some pointers on how their storytelling skill is put to work.

TROOPS 301-306
These two troops got together last weekend for a holiday at Camp Natrin. The girls camped in one of the cabins and spent every free moment ice-skating, sledding and fishing through the ice. In the evening, lanterns were lit on the shore

Initiated to Sorority
Janet Mills, 367 Suffield road, was among six students at the University of Wisconsin initiated in Theta Sigma Phi, honorary professional journalism sorority at the State university.
