

Redskins Dropped From First Place In Farm League

The Redskins' first loss of the season last week dropped them from the National division's first place deadlock with the Browns in Little League farm system play. The Browns kept in their winning ways by defeating the Cards 2-1. It was an uphill battle for the Browns who tied the score in the last of the sixth on Jim Purdy's homer and followed with the winning run on a long drive to left off the bat of Carl Lisewski.

The Redskins fell to the Panthers 17-12 as Panthers Larry West and Doug Moore combined for three home runs.

A 7-1 win over the Lions protected the 49er's undefeated record in the American Division.

A home run by Jim Codner of the Bulldogs in the seventh inning decided a contest with the Steelers as the Bulldogs won 3-1.

Polo

With big best polo when the going is roughest.

Larry Williams, 24, an advertising copy writer, is a polished player who is as adept on defense as he is on attack. He is the type of player who never gets rattled, no matter how great the pressure.

DAVE WILLIAMS, 19, 6-foot-3 Michigan State College junior, has exceptional promise. He was promoted to the Ivory Ranger team for spot assignments in key games last year, thus becoming, at 18, one of the youngest high goal players in the country. He made good from the start, too, belting in 56 goals for the Rangers.

Few young men are as intensely interested in polo as he. He can get terrific power into his drives and he customarily plays at a dizzying pace. If he continues his development, he could become one of the country's top high goal players.

Perry Williams now confines his interest in polo to a place on the sidelines, cheering for his sons. But the elder Williams is a prominent harness horse owner and breeder.

His boys are also enthused about harness racing. Dave has jogged his father's trotters and pacers in their morning workouts. He admits he'd like to become a reinsman. But not right now.

He's too interested in polo. And so is Larry.
