

Teachers Luncheon Held in Honor of Departing Members

Following commencement exercises today Birmingham high school teachers met for a luncheon in the Maple room in honor of departing members.

The entire teaching staff and former members attended the luncheon, and each of the guests was introduced by a member.

Presented with gifts were Dorothy Acton, English; Audrey Mickelson, homemaker; Kenneth Haggen, Latin, all of whom are leaving the school.

Kenneth Parker, counselor, who will attend Michigan State college graduate school for a doctor's degree in Counseling; Angelina Gasiano, social studies, who plans to study in Italy on a Fulbright scholarship; and Harriet Watson, English, who is going into business.

Social chairman Miss Virginia Louis with committee of George Coch, Angelo Angeletti, and Mrs. Mary Hartwick planned the luncheon.

Household Goods of every description are offered for sale in the Classified Columns of The Birmingham Eccentric.

Joslyn Plaque Dedicated at High School

Dedication of the Marc Joslyn memorial plaque took place in the lobby of Birmingham high school last Thursday in a brief but impressive service.

The service opened with the singing of the Lord's Prayer by the high school choir.

The relief plaque portrays an undefeated knight in shining armor praying to God. It was designed and cast in German silver by world famous sculptor Marshall Fredricks. At the service he told his reasons for depicting the Marc Joslyn memorial as he did in this plaque.

Miss Dorothy Allen explained the history of the establishment of the Joslyn memorial, and accepted the care of the memorial was Bill Dove, president of the Student Congress. Ross A. Wagner, principal, talked on the several memorial services at the school. The service closed with a prayer by Cherry Harris and taps sounded by Ed Nordstrom.

Accompanying the memorial plaque are two awards given to the senior boy and the senior girl who "best embody Marc's leadership, school citizenship and interest in student affairs" as determined by representative boards.

At the swing-out program presented by the graduating seniors John Hubert and Sarah Colwell received the watches and memorial booklets given as part of the award.

J. Jay Myers making the presentations.

PREPARATIONS FOR the City and Country school's Carnival, to be held Sunday, June 20, 1 to 5:30 p.m. are going ahead speedily as grown ups pitch in to help the children set up carnival booths.

Mrs. Charlotte Whitney, Birmingham (far left), and Mrs. Alisia Mackie, Troy township (far right), are two of the adults helping out. Discussing the design of two carnival booths with the ladies are Sandy McGregor and Bud Palmiter (above), Michael Rich (standing), Bonnie Ohaver, Lisa Mackie, and Maude Cooper (seated) and Peter Booth (center). Staged annually for the benefit of the School's scholarship fund the carnival offers fun and sales booths, egg tossing contests and doughnut and toothpick relays. A kiddie-land, complete with merry-go-round and other rides is also being offered. A special feature will be a pony card drawn by six matched ponies that children may ride.
