

Wing Lake School Fair Opens Saturday, May 15

WING LAKE-FOXROCK-PTO members of Wing Lake School are rushing last minute preparations for the Wing Lake school spring fair this Saturday. Such hustle and bustle adds to the general excitement pervading the community, so that parents are kept busy "counting the days" with their children!

Originally slated for the variety show at 7 p.m., Allen T. Peacock will be unable to appear. Daniel L. Zinser, Jr., popularly known as Zindu, the magician, will replace him.

Back May 5 from a fishing trip to the Drummond Island Hunting and Fishing Club are Mrs. Richard Garlick, Wing Lake, and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Mosley and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Van Beckland of Bloomfield.

Overcoming a woman's natural squeamishness for bathing hooks with swimming minnows, Mrs. Garlick reports a hectic but wonderful seven days catching, pilbering and almost as many nights dipping for smelt.

Mr. and Mrs. George Walker and children, Pam, Lynne, George and Jody, Wing Lake, are jubilant over the birth of a "new" member of their family, 6 pound, 14 ounces Bruce Radman, born May 7 at Mt. Carmel hospital, Detroit.

Foxcroft Farm and Garden Club held their May 3 meeting at the home of Mrs. Robert Williams, Orchard Way. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Cornelius Van Halteren and Mrs. E. J. Green.

Calling the meeting to order with a hand-carved, cherry wood gavel made and presented to her by G. L. McCain at their April 5 meeting, president Mrs. H. Carter and members discussed general business. After which, she introduced guest speaker, Russell Grinnell, who read colored slides to illustrate various points in his informative talk on the planting and care of chrysanthemums.

Exhibiting her wonderful flair for creating the right mood for a particular party, Mrs. Ralph Darling delighted her Grandmothers Club by tottering down the walk to greet her guests as a "Granny of the gay '90's" meeting the modern grandmothers of today.

Wearing a black taffeta skirt with bustle, straw hat bedecked with plumes and roses, and a black shawl hiding the prim china inherited from her grandmother.

Meticulously following old recipes, Mrs. Darling served her guests with a ham and beef casserole, asparagus spears spread with cheese sauce, salad, rolls, cake, ice cream and coffee that brought forth recollections of childhood dinners enjoyed with grandparents long ago.

After luncheon, Mrs. Darling, Mrs. William Hudson, and Mrs. Allen MacLean shared memories of their grandmothers with Mrs. Edward Huse, Mrs. Thomas Reedy, Mrs. Thomas Kenny, Mrs. Bruce Gayland, Mrs. Edward Horricks of North Rosedale Park and Mrs. Joseph Johnson, Wing Lake road.

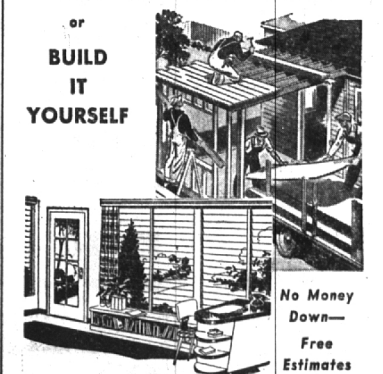

Already an uncle to 15-month-old Donald Vachon, Jr., 5-year-old Johnny Irvine's cheeks are dimpling over his sister Pat's baby, Debra Gail, born May 2 at St. Joseph's hospital in Pontiac.

Accepting congratulations with him are fond grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Irvine, Worthington road, and the Harvey Vachons at 4423 West Maple.

communion, Susan's birthday and James Allen's birthday, officially due May 3.

Mrs. A. J. Allen's final comment: "After all this activity, I am looking forward to Mother's Day—breakfast served in bed and, dinner out!"

Due to injuries suffered by several children in this area, the Bloomfield Township Police Department asks that parents counsel their offspring to stay away from homes that are under construction.

Members of the Wing Lake Shores Farm and Garden Club met at the Cherokee home of Mrs. Lee Carter, May 3, to hear state president, Mrs. J. C. Roberts, Birmingham, speak on "Down to Earth Gardening." Co-hostesses were Mrs. Allan Geidelman and Mrs. George Keohn.

After general business discussions, Mrs. Roberts exhibited colored slides and specimens of mahonia, euonymus, holly, etc., which she used throughout her talk. She was also most helpful in answering questions regarding the coming National Farm and Garden Club convention to be held in Detroit.

With a gardener's love for color and fragrance, Mrs. Carter brought spring indoors with floral arrangements of forget-me-nots, snapdragons, peach, crabtree, currant, quince and grape branches cut from her own yard. Blending with the pink, white, red, salmon, blue and yellow blossoms were silver and chrome table settings, colorful cakes, bon bons and candy decorated with miniature forget-me-nots, roses, violets and calla lilies.

At the close of the meeting, as though challenged by this rainbow of color, a Baltimore oriole settled on the limb of a tree near the picture window and, for a moment, allowed members to admire the brilliant orange and black of his plumage.

Leaving May 15 for a six week's vacation, Mrs. Muriel Lane, Birmingham road, will visit daughter, Royal, who will completely remake and renovate your old mattress and box springs... for less than half the cost of new bedding.

Ten years old on May 2, Susan celebrated her birthday a day earlier, on Saturday, with friends Susan Woodhouse, Janet Cutting, Caroline Rosier, Jane and Patricia Casson, Florence Dyer and sister, Sally.

Ending their busy week on a high note, the Allens and children, Jimmy, Sally, Pete and Susan, a subdued Tippi, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Tvedell, Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. James S. Allen, North Hills, gathered on Worthington for a Sunday party, breakfast in honor of Sally's first

Newlyweds to Make Home in Virginia

Martha Ann Helwig of Pittsburgh, Pa., formerly of Birmingham, Herbert William Speight of Pearisburg, Pa., were married at 2:30 p.m., Saturday, at the Fox Chapel Community church. Dr. Francis A. Cox, assisted by the Rev. David P. Birch, officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white tulle with a portrait neck-line and a yoke of illusion outlined by hand applied Swiss piping and flowers and seed pearls extending from the yoke to the waistline in front. The bouffant skirt was draped at the sides and ended in a chapel sweep. Her full length veil of hand made Brussels lace over imported illusion was worn in a mantilla fashion. Martha carried a small Bible, a gift of the groom, covered with staphenotis and lilies of the valley.

THE NEW Mrs. Speight is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman G. Helwig of Pittsburgh. Her husband's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Speight of Santa Barbara, Calif.

The bride's attendants included Dolores Martin, maid of honor; Kathryn Johnson, Julie Arnold and Mrs. Theodore Olson, bridesmaids; and Wendy Ellen Moore, flower girl.

The bride's mother wore an afternoon dress of coffee colored alpaca lace over beige silk shantung with a corsage of cymbidium orchids and a small beige velvet hat with tiny flowers carrying out the coffee tones.

Following a honeymoon at Sea Island, Ga., the couple will reside in Virginia.

Busy Players Let Picnic Party Go To Their Heads

A play in rehearsal is not the only thing which can keep Village Players busy. Currently they are planning their annual election, a hat check dinner, a fashion show, a picnic, and a play of dramatic character.

Following the election, a fashion parade of "Village Am 17" hats will be held. The evening will conclude with dancing to the new "bld" system recently installed for the players by John H. Hall and Carl Reynolds, Jr., both used for the first time.

At its annual meeting, capital improvements approved included a new roof on the Playhouse.

The board will also include Mrs. J. F. Hollister, Mrs. C. F. Green, R. M. Richardson and H. F. Royal, Sr., treasurer.
