COMMITTEE'S WIFE In-law Problem May Be Difficult But Don't Despair

By HELEN BRUNSON
Special Writer for The Birmingham Eccentric

When a bride walks down the church aisle, there's often a mother-in-law problem lurking.

Of course there are many families where mothers and their children's spouses live in perfect harmony, even in the same house together. But these are seldom heard of.

And there will continue to be mother-in-law conflicts as long as the institution of marriage survives.

For which you women are to blame. You have a tendency to be a little too busy with your own life to give your new daughter-in-law the attention and help she needs. You are too busy trying to get your own life in order, too busy trying to make your own life a little more comfortable, too busy trying to make your own life a little more interesting.

ON THE OTHER side of the coin, you may be the dearest person you know, but you may be a little too busy with your own life to give your new daughter-in-law the attention and help she needs.

Mrs. Brunson is a well-known writer on domestic problems. She has written many articles for the Birmingham Eccentric and other magazines.

Signal Rock Ranch Home of Newlyweds

A lace bertha accented the white satin wedding gown worn by Phyllis Brenkert when she became the bride of Richard Maney Patterson. Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a matching lace cap and she carried a bouquet of Stephanotis and roses centered with a white orchid.

The nuptials were exchanged at 8 p.m. Friday, in the First Baptist church. The Rev. Emil Kuntz officiated at the delightful ceremony.

Phyllis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Brenkert of Detroit, Her husband, of Florissant, Colo., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Patterson of Los Angeles, Calif.

MRS. JAMES K. Fuller of Birmingham, Ala., was her sisters' matron of honor wearing an emerald green velvet dress. She carried bouquets.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Richard E. Dieckhoff, sister of the bride, Mrs. Peter Pullum, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Mary Ann Vincent Peale, sister of the groom.

After Nov. 15, they will make their home at Signal Rock Ranch, Florissant, Colo.
