Described in a recent issue of "American Artist" as "one of the greatest living sculptors," Fredericks will give an illustrated talk on his work including the famous Victory Eagle on the Veterans Memorial building, Detroit; the "American Soldier" in the Mobile River, Florida, and other outstanding pieces.

Opening the 1955 program will be Mrs. Kathleen Lardie, head of the audio-visual department for Detroit's board of education. She will share program ideas with Dr. Walter Stone, coordinator of educational television, a feature about to become a reality in Detroit.

Lindeman, Mikiel Lead Semi-Finals

Several name bowlers fell in the state match game bowling semi-finals last weekend at Bloomington. Lindeman and Mikiel were reduced to ten men and ten women for the finals.

A crippled car kept Lee Jouillard from qualifying as he was too late to count all six games in the semi-finals. The field was reduced to six games of 207 rolled by Jouillard that would have placed him among the winners.

Also failing to make the grade were Pete Carter, Lou Siefall and Bill Lillard.

The men who qualified in the two-day semi-finals were Tony Lindeman, Fred Bajack, Bill Burnett, Ed Lubanski, Clark Stager, Therman Gibson, Jim Rutkowski, Bob Prince, Hank Gnielwek, George Young and the 1952 and 1953 champions Buzz Fazio and Tom Hennessy.

Women qualifiers were Val Mikiel, Ginny Tyson, Connie Powell, Pat Lipa, Gladys Dempsey, George Young and the 1952 and 1953 champions Buzz Fazio and Tom Hennessy.

Supreme Court Hears Baldwin Park Arguments

Both sides of the court suit over use of Baldwin park were argued Oct. 13 before the state supreme court.

City Attorney Forbes Hascall said the court's opinion probably will be handed down in December or early January.

Filed by the Baldwin Manor, Inc. and several other housing property owners, it seeks to prevent the city from extending Merrill street west to Maple.

A county circuit court decision has upheld the plaintiffs' claim that use of any of the park as a roadway would be contrary to the terms by which the city acquired the park.

Keep Politics Out Of Our Courts

Within the two-year term of Michigan's next governor, if normal retirement procedures are followed, five members of the Michigan supreme court and 16 circuit court judges will be eligible to retire on pensions.

This would give the governor who is elected Nov. 2 more judicial appointments than any past governor in the state's history has had in a similar 24-month period.

It will give our next governor an opportunity to irrevocably shape or reshape for many years the state's entire judicial structure. This can happen because under the constitutional non-partisan ballot for judicial officers, an incumbent judge is entitled to have such fact printed on the ballot. Under such circumstances a gubernatorial appointment frequently is the equivalent to a life-long appointment.

UNTIL THE PRESENT POLITICAL campaign, Governor Williams has made some good judicial appointments.

However, he recently has passed over several exceptionally qualified Negro lawyers in Detroit and placed upon the Wayne circuit bench a young, 34-year-old Negro lawyer, resident of the state for less than seven years, with little experience in trial work, whose principal claim to judicial fitness was that he had worked for several years in an administrative position with the Michigan Workmen's Compensation Commission.

Undoubtedly, the appointment is good from a political standpoint because it probably will bring extra votes to the Governor—but we seriously question whether it will result in any addition to a strong judiciary.

WHEN WE CONSIDER EVIDENCE of the Governor's political tie-in with present CIO labor leaders and their Political Action Committee, together with his apparent efforts to gain a strong position in his party as the next candidate for national office, we wonder whether he can be trusted, if elected, to use the tremendous power which will be placed in his hands, not to pack our courts with appointees best calculated to enhance his political fortunes, but to carry on the work of Michigan's traditionally independent judiciary.

We believe the future of our great state will be served best by placing the power of reshaping Michigan's courts in the hands of someone whose actions will not be likely to be influenced by pressure groups, and who has no ambition to build up an organization to advance his political future.

AS BEST BETWEEN THE TWO candidates, we believe the man best able to make these important selections is Donald S. Leonard.

His high ideals, fine personal qualities, and splendid administrative record give assurances to Michigan electors that he can best be trusted to keep the interests of the citizens of the state constantly in mind in the selection of men or women to carry on the work of the judiciary branch of Michigan's state government.

Determined Shamrocks Face Maples Friday

By KIRK FLACK

One of the strongest East Detroit teams in recent years is the Shamrock football team, to take on the Maples at Birmingham's new high school stadium with the kickoff slated for 8 p.m.

Coach Al Asbury, now in his seventh season at East Detroit, has led his team to a record of three wins, one loss and one tie record to date. The Shamrocks defeated the veteran team of Coach Carl Lemle with his first ever Michigan league victory. The triumph, probably the Maples' best showing in the current campaign, brought their season's record to three and two with a one and two league mark.

Last year, Birmingham and East Detroit, which finished in the League cellar, played to a 0-0 deadlock. This season, however, the Maples will have to hustle to beat a Shamrock team determined to stay in contention for the League championship.

THE SHAMROCK'S victory over Port Huron was well deserved, with East Detroit's highly rated defense turning in a great performance. On virtually every play at least Birmingham's line burst through the Port Huron forward wall to smear the ball-carrier before he could get started.

It was this type of play that earned East Detroit the reputation of being a good defensive ballclub. The Shamrocks has yet to find itself being able to push over only four touchdowns in five games.

East Detroit runs from either the T formation with a balanced line, or the single wing play, the line unbalanced to the right or left.

The Shamrock line is big, rugged and most aggressive on defense. The backfield is led by fullback Lyne Cole, a transfer student from Pershing high school, who scored the lone counter against Port Huron. Also outstanding to date have been center quarterback Hank Carter, who does most of the passing, and junior halfback Bill Rogers, a fast and elusive runner.

Participating in the activity was Birmingham's football club of Birmingham, Volunteer field consultant.

Women Supervise Ringing of Area's 13,000 Doorbells

Economists claim that the ladies control the bulk of the nation's personal wealth, and that as much as 90 percent of the money spent by the families goes through the woman's pocket-book.

So it stands for reason that the largest part of the money collected by the United Foundation for the Ringing of Doorbells in Birmingham, Bloomfield, Franklin and Jackson is accounted for by the volunteer women solicitors.

In fact, the women who are canvassing the residential areas this week will bring in about 75 per cent of the money collected during the drive.

The hard-working women, organized in neighborhood housewives to do the canvassing. At the top of the women's organization are the nine area chairmen; Mrs. Robert H. Penner, president, chairman for Birmingham; Mrs. Beverly Hills, Mrs. Robert W. Walls, Bloomfield; Mrs. E. A. Schirmer, Bloomfield; Mrs. Hester (West) Dettler, Franklin; Mrs. Beverly Hills, Mrs. Robert W. Walls, Bloomfield; Mrs. E. A. Schirmer, Bloomfield.

Working with these area chairmen are the 90 captains—all women—who maintain a close personal contact with their vital volunteers.

The solicitors are working women—all donating their time and energy for the success of the Torch Drive.

Armed with a list of names and addresses, explanatory literature, pledges, cards and envelopes (for the cash gifts), the ladies make repeat calls if necessary to be sure that every family is contacted.

To quote the title of a current popular song, "It's a Woman's World," indeed.

Dramatic Teacher Highlights Trip In Deck Hand Job

When Miss Sara Strengell, founder and instructor of the Teenage Theater Workshop, went aboard this summer, she added a new touch to her trip.

Traveling to Finland, her homeland, on the MS Orion, Miss Strengell became somewhat bored with inactivity and immediately landed herself a job as deckhand. She spent a great deal of time scrubbing decks, mending mats, work, painting life preservers and just painting.

"I gave me something to do besides sit," she explains, "and even more than that, it entitled me to have coffee with the crew."

Society deadline is 3 p.m. each Tuesday.
