Parade

All junior high school age students in the city will meet at Barnum at the same hour for an evening of games and dancing ending at 11 p.m.

BARNUM HAS instituted a "special prize" idea. Shortly after the party breaks up, committee members begin making calls to the homes of children. If the boy or girl has reached home and answers the call, a prize will be provided at the first school day after the parade.

Senior high school students will meet at the school for an 8:30-to midnight dance.

Both Barnum and the senior high school groups will have additional prizes awarded at the school. Others will be picked up at a booth in the Briggs lot. About 500 are to be given this year.

COMMITTEE members have stressed that parents should designate a place to meet their children should they become parted during the evening.

"We used to be able to take care of that ourselves," a committee member said, "but with so many parents and children on the street that night, it has become impossible for us. Be sure your children know where you will meet them."

Before the parade date, each child will receive from the school a printed schedule of the parade and other activities. Tickets will be passed out for the food and parties at this time. In the event these tickes are lost, replacements may be obtained at the Community House or the YMCA.

City to Pitch Pennies, Herd Only Buffaloes

If you've been accumulating pennies to use in Birmingham's parking meters, better use 'em up before Dec. 1.

On that day, city commissioners decided this week, the city will go out of the penny collecting business and gather in only nickels.

At the same time, several dozen 30-minute parking spaces will become operative. These will be located adjacent to alleys, intersections, and building entrances on Woodward and Maple.

METERS will be painted a special color to distinguish them from present one and two-hour meters.

"Many cities have abandoned the penny-nickel meters, and now use only the five-cent rate," City Manager D. C. Egbert explained to the commission.

He said the "increase" probably will boost the annual meter collection of about $35,000 by "10 to 15 per cent."

Boundaries Set By Supervisors For Interceptor

Formal Boundary lines for the Evergreen Drainage District's interceptor sewer were approved by the Oakland county board of supervisors at its meeting Tuesday.

The action came after the city of Lathrup Village accepted the tentative cost allocation figures in special meeting of the council Monday night.

Lathrup has been a holdout on preliminary terms of the interceptor's cost for the past several weeks as two councilmen have protested that Lathrup's share of the project was not an equitable one.

The project gained its final approval Monday night by a vote of three-to-one as councilmen explained the interceptor would be a far cheaper venture than for the city to provide its own disposal methods.

THE PLAN previously was given the nod by the cities of Birmingham and Bloomfield Hills and the townships of Southfield, Bloomfield and Troy as a solution to sewage disposal. Only Troy has escaped citation by the state's Water Resources Commission for pollution of the Rouge River.

Members of the district now will formulate plans for engineering and payment of the giant sewer line to Detroit, estimated to cost $2½ million and designed to serve a maximum population of 136,000 by 1970.

Lathrup's tentative cost has been set at $179,000.

Violator Punished

A Walled Lake driver who Friday pleaded guilty of driving with a revoked operator's license was fined $50 by Justice John J. Gafill in Birmingham Justice Court. The violator, Robert A. McKinnon, 25, was also placed on a year's probation.

Area Schools Tie In Season Finale

Holy Name school gridders tied St. Hugo's Tuesday afternoon 13-13 to close out the football season for both schools. The tie gave Holy Name a season record of two wins, two losses and a tie.

A football banquet is being planned for the players and their parents at the Community House on Wednesday, Nov. 1.

Police Arrest Missing Broker

Eugene A. Parmenter, 54-year-old Pontiac broker who feigned suicide after a shortage of $175,000 was discovered in his accounts, was being held following his arrest Monday in Oklahoma City.

Police said Parmenter, who formerly lived at 6366 Thurber, Wing Lake, was manager of the W. H. Provita Co., a brokerage house with offices in the National Bank Building until his disappearance in August, 1953, when auditors discovered the shortage.

A suicide note received by his wife told her of his decision to end his life. An intensive police search in the area of his Crystal Lake cottage failed to produce any evidence of his death, and the authorities continued their efforts to locate him.

POLICE CHIEF Herbert W. Straley, returning from a recent police convention in New Orleans, came across the trail in Austin, Tex., where Parmenter's divorced wife now lives. There he learned that Mrs. Parmenter frequently visited "a friend" in Oklahoma City.

Following Chief Straley's tip, Oklahoma City police made the arrest. Parmenter admitted his identity, they said, and quoted him as telling them all the money was spent.

The former broker served a minimum sentence of a term of 4½ to 15 years starting in 1931, following his conviction of misuse of funds while employed by the now defunct First State Savings Bank in Birmingham. He had concealed his prison record from the Pontiac firm.

Parmenter waived extradition proceedings and was flown to Pontiac accompanied by Chief Straley. Prosecuting Attorney Frederick C. Zeim said he expected the prisoner would be arraigned as soon as possible under the outstanding charge of larceny by conversion, and also may face a charge of embezzlement.

The first offense carries a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment and a $2500 fine, while the second provides for up to 10 years in prison and a $5000 fine.

Suit

SUPT. OF SCHOOLS Dwight B. Ireland Wednesday issued this statement regarding Judge Holland's decision:

"Naturally it was encouraging for members of the school board, the administration, and all persons interested in public education to learn of Judge Holland's decision.

"School districts are completely uninformed about the matter of liability insurance. If they do not have governmental immunity in case of suits similar to this, they should have some liability insurance. If they take out liability insurance they, by this very act, might waive their liability.

"And, lastly, there is no provision by law authorizing the expenditure of public monies for this purpose.

"School administrators and members of boards of education deserve to have some directive so they can act in the public interest in such matters. If they are sincere, they do not want to be negligent and the proper procedure should be made clear by law.

"Judge Holland, in my opinion, exercised patience and extreme care in hearing this case. It will tend to clarify the thinking of all persons interested in public education."

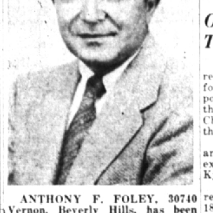
Mail Clerk Takes Rifle Training

Cpl. Julian N. Andrews is taking an extensive training course with the M1 rifle at Fort Campbell, Ky. A member of the 11th Airborne Division "Anles", he received his basic training at Ft. Campbell and graduated from the parachute school in July, 1954. Serving as company mail clerk, he recently completed his tenth parachute jump.

Prior to entering service he was graduated from Bloomfield Hills high school. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Andrews now reside at 8620 Hartwell, Detroit.

Block Drive-In

SOUTHFIELD — On recommendation of the planning commission, the township board Tuesday night denied a rezoning of property on Northwestern north of Lahser for operation of a drive-in theater. Petitioner for the rezoning was Charles Bauervic, 1471 Glengary, Bloomfield Village.



ANTHONY F. FOLEY, 30740 Vernon, Beverly Hills, has been elected president of the Indian Village Bakery, 8201 Mack, Detroit. He rose from stock boy to vice president and general manager of the Lombardi Food Co., Detroit. He is also treasurer of the Eastern Market Association.

Election

The lots are on Lincoln and are bordered on three sides by industrial property.

The Oakland County Board of Supervisors for the second time this year has placed the bond issue question for construction of a new county building before electors.

Explaining that by issuing general obligation bonds approved by the vote of the people the county can materially save on bond interest, the proposal asking authorization of a $4,500,000 general bond issue will again appear on the ballot.

VOTERS defeated the proposition in the August 3 primary when they approved issuance of bonds but failed to approve the increase in the tax rate.

Financing of the issue, as asked in the proposal, would cost taxpayers 50 cents per thousand dollars of equalized valuation for a period of 20 years.

State propositions include an amendment to prevent disqualification of electors who have moved within the state during the 30 day period preceding an election, the "Conlin Plan" to amend the constitution for the distribution of sales tax revenues; state borrowing for payment of Korean war veteran bonuses, and a further constitutional amendment to permit state legislators to authorize lotteries for non-profit organizations.

THE REGISTRATION law amendment, if approved, would save the votes of those state residents who move from city to suburb who now lose their franchise until they have waited out the required term or residency.

The "Conlin Plan", as proposed, would eliminate the time lag between the collection of sales taxes and the distribution of state aid. It would continue the present formula of state aid to cities, villages and townships and is reported to be aimed at solving school administrators' problems over future financing of schools.

The Korean bonus is expected to cost the state some $80,000,000 if voters support the proposal. The maximum bonus any veteran can receive for service from June 27, 1950 and December 31, 1953 would be $500.

The lottery question has come to the fore in recent years when state and local officials have clamped down on bingo and similar games by enforcing laws that have always been on the books. While many church groups have opposed the amendment, a great wave of fraternal, social and patriotic organizations has brought the question to a vote.

Candidates

Of prime importance to political leaders will be the outcome of the state's senatorial race. Republican incumbent Homer Ferguson is expected to be challenged strongly for reelection by Patrick V. McNamara, Democrat.

The state governorship will also be watched closely by both parties as Republican Donald S. Leonard seeks to halt a successful fourth term bid of Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

Democrat Paul Sutton also will seek to bring to a close the long career of veteran Representative George A. Dondero (R), in the Eighteenth District congressional race.

On the state level, Democrat candidates are Philip A. Hart for lieutenant governor; Thomas M. Kavanagh for attorney general; Sanford A. Brown for state treasurer; Victor Targonski for auditor general; Fred Elias for state senator; William G. Lambros for state representative from the third district and Donald L. Swanson for representative from the fourth district.

REPUBLICAN incumbents seeking reelection to these posts are Clarence A. Reid, lieutenant governor; Frank G. Millard, attorney general; D. Hale Brake, treasurer; John B. Martin, auditor general; William S. Broomfield, state senator; Richard C. VanDusen, third district representative and Theodore F. Hughes who is seeking his first term as representative from the fourth district.

On the county level Republican incumbents seeking reelection to office are Prosecuting Attorney Frederick C. Ziem, County Clerk Lynn D. Allen, Treasurer Charles A. Sparks, Register of Deeds Orrin McQuaid, Drain Commissioner Ralph A. Main and Surveyor Omar E. MacNutt who is unopposed.

REPUBLICAN Frank Irons is seeking a first term as sheriff, after defeating incumbent Clare Hubbell in the August 3 primary election.

Democrat candidates for the county offices are Robert L. O'Connell, prosecuting attorney; George D. Hicks, sheriff; Neil R. Crowe, clerk; Donald E. Barrett, treasurer; Hazel A. Kuschinsky, register of deeds; and Glen D. Harper, drain commissioner.

Also to be elected, but on a non-partisan ticket, are two circuit court commissioners. Only candidates for the posts are Maurice F. Cole and Verne C. Hampton.

Officer Joining Treasury Tax Unit

Police Officer Robert Rowe has resigned from the Birmingham force effective Nov. 1 to accept a post with the Alcohol Tax Unit of the U.S. Treasury Department, Chief Ralph F. Moxley announced this week.

Rowe, who lives with his wife and two children at 1849 Holland, expects to be assigned to Pineville, Ky., as a criminal investigator.

Chief Moxley said he will be replaced by Patrick O'Hara, 23, 1860 Banbury. The prospective officer is a Marine Corps veteran and is now attending the University of Detroit.
