

Emcees University Fashion Show, Tea

Modes and manners for freshmen at University of Detroit were detailed by Joanne Greiner, 3846 Wedgewood, when she acted as mistress of ceremonies at a fashion show and tea Sunday.

In a short speech at the upper-classwomen-sponsored event at the

125 Hear Discussion on LWV Policies

About 125 members and guests of the Birmingham League of Women Voters heard Mrs. E. O. Schulze, of Ann Arbor, discuss the stand taken by the Conlin Bill taken by the Michigan League's board of directors, at a Monday meeting at the Community house. New members were welcomed by Mrs. John Runney. They are: Mrs. Roland Beck, Mrs. J. E. Berno, Mrs. T. E. Cartwright, Mrs. H. Copeland, Jr., Mrs. James W. Frederick, Mrs. Walter Jackson, Mrs. Charles C. Layman, Mrs. William A. McNamee, Mrs. William T. McNaughton, Mrs. Glen C. Melinger, Mrs. H. R. Norgren, Mrs. Dennis Reynolds, Mrs. Herbert Snellings, Mrs. Neil Stark, Mrs. Ross Williams, Mrs. Robert Windler, Mrs. Clyde L. Reed, Mrs. William Dickinson, Mrs. Robert Branson and Mrs. Donald Scriven.

U. of D. Memorial building, Miss Greiner told of collegiate activities, sororities and clubs. She shared, with General chairman Rosemary Fahey duties of fashion trend discussion as campus togs were modeled.

Among guest speakers was the Rev. Celestin J. Steiner, S.J., university president.

North Adams

DIBBY SMITH MI 4-2723

Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Smith of North Adams road have as their guests Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Smith of Ossipee, N. H.

These former residents of Birmingham used to live on Larchlea drive, so their two-month visit with their son and his family will not be long enough to do all the things, and see all the friends that they wish, before they go on to Phoenix, Ariz. to visit another son, Ralph. Mr. Richard Smith said that many parties are being scheduled for the visitors.

The younger Smiths have recently moved into their home, an old farm house which they have remodeled. Furniture refinishing has been a time consuming occupation for the young Mrs. Smith, so most likely there will be some furniture finishing bees between the New Hampshire Smiths head westward in November.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Bunes Jr. have returned to their home in Kent, Ohio. They were weekend guests of Mr. Bunes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Bunes, Sr., at their home on North Adams road.

While here, they made the acquaintance of their new nephew, one-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Bunes. The visit was an occasion for a family get-together.

WELCOME

J. Rouge Circle boasts some more new residents. Mr. and Mrs. Roland Smith and their 14-year-old daughter, Sue Carolyn, moved from Waterford township to their new home this summer. Smith is with the White Oak Transportation Company in Pontiac.

Photography and traveling are special interests of this couple. Their daughter loves sports and places riding high on her list of these activities. Mrs. Smith is a member of the Newcomers club. Sue Carolyn is a member of "Joy's Daughters" in Clarkston.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cornelius moved in August from their home in Oak Park. Cornelius is senior research engineer for General Motors at their plant at 12 Mile and Motard roads. Mrs. Cornelius plans to attend the Newcomers club meetings.

Mrs. Charles Mortenson of Manor road has resumed her fall teaching schedule in the art of the dance. She again has her class of "babies."

Before Paul F. Kelcourse of Hy-lane drive became a Michigander, he lived in North Westmouth, Mass. so hurricane Edna has been of personal concern to him as his family still live there.

They have sent pictures of the damage to the town and the report that the large catalpa tree in their front yard was blown down but there was no damage to the house.

This summer Mr. and Mrs. Kelcourse have spent every free minute aboard their cruiser. Not so long ago they and their neighbors, the Kenneth Allison, of Chestnut Hill procured sitters for their youngsters and went off on a day's outing in their boat. They went up to Harsen's Island and had dinner there at the Idle Hour before they returned to Detroit.

Kelcourse is General Manager for Florio Inc. Visual Training.

PINE HILL, LWV

The first meeting of the Pine Hill Unit of the League of Women

Voters was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Brandon, Pine Hill drive, Tuesday, Sept. 14.

Despite the inclement weather there was a grand turnout and much interest was shown in the group and its work. Future meetings were discussed and it was decided that monthly meetings would be called for the second Tuesday evening of each month.

Mrs. Robert Stacey gave a brief orientation of the League and its work and then a chart presentation of the recreation facilities in Birmingham was given. The chart showed what facilities we have, where we lack facilities and what is needed in grades through high school.

It was noted that for the grade school children there are adequate recreational facilities in the Birmingham area but for the teenager there is very little. Places for skating and swimming are badly needed.

October 12 at the home of Mrs. Robert Stacey, 2846 Pine Hill drive, is the time and place of the next meeting.

The American Steamship Lines launched a new boat last Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Warren W. Johnson drove to Bay City last weekend to take part in the christening activities of the new freighter named after Mrs. Johnson's father, Ben W. Calvin. Calvin is president of the Acton Portland Cement company.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen R. Miller of Hy-lane drive have returned from a five-day visit in Niagara Falls, Ont.

John Hobrock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Hobrock of Beach road and Jamie Morton, son of Dr. and Mrs. James Morton of Birmingham, used to have some very good times together when Jamie lived next door.

This year the two boys will be together again when they are classmates at Cranbrook. Jamie is enrolled as a boarding student while Birthdays, anniversaries, guests, births, parties are all news—the society editor about them.

Bird-Halpin Troth Told

Major and Mrs. Edward E. Bird of Laurel, Md., announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice Eileen, to 1st Lt. George Edward Halpin, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Edward Halpin of 1424 Ruffner street.

The bride-elect was educated in Laurel schools and at present is post receptionist at Fort Meade. Her fiancé entered the service in Aug. 1947, and served in Europe, and the Far East. He is now stationed at Fort Meade.

Guide to Good Living

MELLOW PAST—
DRAMATIC PRESENT—
HEIRLOOM AIR . . .

You've seen these very pieces in the better home decorating magazines. Now come see them in our Birmingham store—picture them in your home. They have a fine aura of traditional distinction—yet a freshness that avoids the triteness of some modern. They cost a bit more than furniture of less distinction. But they'll serve you (and perhaps another generation) so happily for so many years, give you so much pride of possession, that the price differential between these and the "ordinary" is trivial.

Crafted of walnut, these pieces are available in a warm natural finish that's traditional in feeling or a distressed "shell" finish that's a sort of grayish driftwood in tone. All pieces have a low silhouette.

Worth noting: these pieces are flexible, and in open stock living room tables and upholstered chairs are available for homes where living and dining areas adjoin. The upholstered seats of the dining chairs, at left, may be had, at very slight extra cost, in a wide choice of fabrics and colors—leather, Velux, or Naugahyde, to keep them to your decorating scheme.

Many of the pieces are multiple purpose, too, e.g. the low, louvered chest, at left, is such a dramatic conversation piece that it could be used in a foyer, a living room, or even a bedroom.
