A Story Of Three Generations!

Note: please, the other characteristics in addition to natural (minimum padding, slightly sloped) shoulders which distinguish the Naturalaire model . . . the hair placement, the in-and-out flap on the pockets, the straight narrow lapel, the straight hang of the coat, and the correct vent. Trousers are slightly narrower at the knees and cuffs.

Naturalaire

Many of the men who tailor our famous Naturalaire model are following in the footsteps of their fathers and grandfathers. It is this "three generation heritage" which accounts for the exceptional character of this natural-shoulder model—and for the fact that it is as easy to wear as it is handsome.

Knoblock-Wilson Rites Read at Kirk-in-the-Hills

A coat of alencon lace covered Beryl Marlene Wilson's nylon tulle and slipper satin gown worn for her marriage Saturday to John Delbridge Alvin Knoblock. The Rev. Harold DeWint performed the double ring rites in a candle light ceremony at Kirk-in-the-Hills.

The coat extended into a cathedral length train and had long sleeves ending in points over the wrists. Her fingertip illusion veil was held in place by a cap of seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The bride carried a white satin prayer book with a white orchid and streamers of stephanotis.

BERYL is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Glenn Wilson of Pontiac. John's parents are Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Knoblock of 8 Shadow lane, Bloomfield Hills. Barbara Knoblock, sister of the groom, was Beryl's maid of honor. Her ballerina length strapless gown of cotton/blue saxon tulle, taffeta and lace was topped with a lace jacket. She wore matching blue shoes and her headpiece was a lace tiara. Barbara carried a cascade arrangement of pink and white carnations and trailing ivy. Dressed in identical gowns of pink were bridesmaids Virginia Houle of Franklin and Patricia Bunker of Eureka, Calif. Their tiaras were of pink lace and yellow and white carnations with the trailing ivy made up their cascade bouquets.

AS FLOWER girls, Kathleen and Ann Susan Burnett, cousins of the bride, wore pink floor length

Robert Knoblock, a younger brother of the groom was family usher. Another brother, Alvin Knoblock, was the ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding and the reception following at Rotunda Inn on Oak Lake, Mrs. Wilson wore a white lace cocktail length dress with white accessories and a corsage of daisies rose buds. Mrs. Knoblock was dressed in rose-beige satin with bronze accessories, and she also had a corsage of daisies rose buds.

After touring northern Michigan for ten days, the couple will return to Stanford University in California where John will be a senior and Beryl, a sophomore. For traveling, the bride chose a brown linen suit with beige and white accessories. With it, she wore a white orchid corsage.
