

THERE'S PLENTY of the Easter feeling around Quarton school as this large hall display proves. The two huge bunnies and the Easter chick are the work of children in the third through sixth grades. Jill Sage and Priscilla Holmes, who contributed much time and effort to the display, stop by to examine their handiwork with a great deal of pride and satisfaction. The bunnies dwarf the youngsters who created them and certainly add a festive air just by the Oak street entrance. (Eccentric Photo)

Spelling, School Paper and Crafts Keep Barnum Busy

Carolyn Chapell, eighth grade, won the Barnum school spelling bee April 1, in which 20 seventh and eighth graders participated. The bee was held April 1 in the school library. She will represent the school in the Detroit News district bee to be held at Baldwin on April 22.

John Aik and Carol Weston are editors of the fourth issue of Barnum's school paper, "The Ink Splash," coming out in April. The two classes handling the paper are William Ladd's and Geraldine Grandfield's homerooms. They will write the stories, publish and distribute the papers.

A FLY-TYING CLUB has been started at Barnum. The boys will make some of their equipment as they will meet each Thursday. In the metal shop most of the boys have finished their label holders and learned how to use a bar folder and punch holes in sheet metal. Their current project is the key tag on which they stamp their names. The next project will be a bracelet.

IN WOOD shop the pupils are working on the pail holder and cutting board. Projects planned for the future are trellises, Mexican carts, wall lamps and pump lamp. The spring schedule for the noon movies started Monday. The first was "It Happens Every Spring," starring Ray Milland and Paul Douglas. It will run all this week. Other movies will be "Lucky Me," "Halls of Montezuma," "Jim Thorpe," "All American," "Army Soldier," "Invaders from Mars," "Down to the Sea in Ships," "Story of Will Rogers," "Them," "Hondo," "Abbott and Costello Meet Capt. Kidd," "Destination Gobi," "Home Sweet Home," "King Richard and the Crusaders," and "Sergeant York."

BHS Journalists Make Honor Group

Seven Birmingham high school students have been elected to Quill and Scroll, international honor society for high school journalists. Elected were Jim Mosby, Cindie Kelly, and Pete Kaas, Highlander editors; Megan Butler editor-in-chief of the Piper; Barbara Gowans, Highlander member and Piper co-advertising manager; Marilee Podlesak, publications business manager; and Marilyn Pratt, production manager.

CREATIVE WRITING awards went to Noel Stookey, Highlander feature editor; Arlene Arik, production manager; and Kirk Flack, sports editor. Business keys were awarded to Dick Martin and Nancy McKenzie, Highlander co-advertising managers. To be eligible for Quill and Scroll, a student must be in the upper 25 per cent of his class, have done distinguished work on high school publications for at least two years, and possess qualities of leadership and good character.
