Note of Caution Left for Manager Following Theft

Three weekend break-ins at an "impudent" store are occupying the time of Det. Lt. Merlin Holmquist.

After forcing a cash box open and taking about $40 in cash and $50 in postage stamps at the American Spring and Wire Specialty office, 109 Pierce, the unknown visitor left a note for owners and police.

"It is a smart idea," he wrote, "not to keep any money in an office like this. Box has been washed. There are no fingerprints on it."

POLICE CHIEF Ralph W. Moxley told E. H. VanNorwick, manager that from the appearance of the typing, the note was written by someone who might be an expert typist.

The similar break-in at the offices of Drs. J. B. Haasberger and Robert Mason, 620 N. Woodward, $177.50 was taken from a heavy iron cabinet vault which had been pried open.

A broken window at Baldwin II, bryary brought a check of those premises, although nothing has so far been determined as stolen.

The job was probably juveniles," Holmquist said, "and it's possible they took some books. Nothing else was disturbed."

BITS OF BIRMINGHAM

AN INDIAN MAIDEN'S memorial stands up north, with a huge white cross waiting for a sculpture work by Marshall Fredericks of Waddington, Birmingham. This Wanderer noticed the mention at The Catholic Shrine at Indian River...

IN FIGURING THE NUMBER of parking spaces a business must provide, under Birmingham's new off-street parking ordinance, planning technician Herb Herzberg states that for every 300 feet of store space used by the public, one car space is required.

AUG. 10 was a fateful day for the Albert Turk family and their four boys. Missing in their home town, Cleveland, they attended a Tiger-Indian baseball game.

A PERFECT HAND in cribbage is a rarity which may happen to the average cribbage player only once in a lifetime. It is short of miraculous when such an event happens twice, and it just CANT happen three times!

WHILE CONNIE did not actually strike Birmingham, a few stray gusts of wind did whip around town Saturday afternoon, bringing with them a very minor case of the storm's power.

EVEN A CAT may look at a queen, says tradition. This was repeated Saturday in the dog world when this Wanderer saw a very dignified, well-groomed, leashed French poodle sitting in the back seat of a Cadillac.

HARRY E. MARKEY is trying to figure out what can be done to warn the birds around his Charing Cross property that danger lurks in what, apparently, appears to the birds as a wooded glen.

ALONG WITH the cost of living, sunflowers are high this year. To this Wanderer's attention within the past few days have come further reports of plants which are traveling high.

Southfield township's temporary inability to finance its share of the Evergreen line, however, has held up the interceptor, causing the present suit by the State.

Southfield charter commissioners have expressed the hope they could hold a vote on the charter by Nov. 1.

MEANWHILE there is discussion in Southfield and Jartrab of the two communities combining for a solution to their own problems to the exclusion of the other communities.

IT WOULD BE an easy matter for the four communities now working for the 14 mile extension to drop plans on the Birmingham sewage plant and return to their original plans.

BIRMINGHAM City Manager Donald C. Egbert said last week that several communities are talking of building individual, small treatment plants to satisfy state demands, unless a better solution appears.

This would be a more expensive operation than either the Evergreen Interceptor project or the enlargement of the Birmingham treatment plant, Egbert said.
