Adults To Join Hills Student Enrollment

TEA UNIVERSITY extension adult education program is set up, then more qualified instructors would be needed, Johnson says. But no-credit courses could start immediately, he indicates.

The study will probably involve an advisory committee of parents to work with teachers on setting up a proof parents to work with teachers on setting up a prigram to answer needs and wishes of localites.

ELEMENTARY and high school classes will open Sept. 6, adjourning at noon so that youngsters may re-turn that afternoon to purchase books. The system sells both used and new books, since there is no supplier in Bloomfield Hills.

Hours will be from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. for high school students and from 9:15 to 3:25 for elementary students. Previously, all students attended from 9 to 3:30. New hours are requiring that the schools employ bases for carrying high school students *eparately from elementary students. The system will be hiring from 8 to 11 large Greyhound buses.

TEACHERS' workshop will be on Sept. 1, 2, and 6, with noonday luncheons scheduled each day for the faculty members.

On the evening of Sept. 6, a special dinner is slated, with an informal program, for faculty and board members, and their wives.
