BeGole-Snader Rites Read by Candlelight

Ellen Ann Snader repeated her vows with Richard Blackwood BeGole at candlelight services at the Christ Church Cranbrook Saturday evening.

The Rev. Perry B. Williams performed the 7:30 p.m. ceremony before 250 guests.

Ellen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira J. Snader of Clarkston. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ari M. BeGole, 1122 Covington, Birmingham.

THE BRIDAL GOWN of white embroidered organza had a fitted bodice accented by a pallone neck line in pleated tulle and tiny sleeves. The tiered skirt ended in a chapel train.

A shell of matching lace secured the three-tiered veil of silk illusion. Stephanotis centered by an orchid formed the bridal bouquet.

The bride's sister, Janet Snader, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mary E. Vanker, Detroit, Patricia H. Demell, Chandler, Arizona, Sara A. McBride, Scarsdale, New York, and Mary E. Hellthaler, Flint.

THE ATTENDANTS were gown alike in ballerina frocks of white organza, checked in blue. They wore blue headpieces. The honor maid carried a bouquet of rubrum lilies and tiny red garnet roses. Bridesmaids carried bouquets of rubrum lilies only.

The best man was Peter BeGole. Seating the guests were Michael B. Redfield, Birmingham, Charles F. Wise, Detroit, Richard I. Sanderson, Oak Park, Ill., and Robert D. Kern of Utica, Mich.

The bride's mother chose a waltz length gown of gray chantilly lace over pale pink gauze de soie with a jeweled hat and accessories in gray and pink. Mauve eyeshadow orchids were fastened on her purse.

THE GROOM'S MOTHER wore a waltz length gown of leaf green silk marquisette with matching accessories. Yellow cymbidium orchids were pinned on her purse.

A reception at Guild Hall, Christ Church Cranbrook, followed the ceremony.

When the couple left for a motor trip to The Innstead at Hot was wearing a beige tweed suit.
