Holy Name Plans All-Parish Fair

"Merry Christmas Market" is the title of the two-day all-parish fair opening in Holy Name's school auditorium Friday, Dec. 2, at 2 p.m. The fair will continue until 9 p.m. Friday and remain open all day Saturday, from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m.

There will be booths with dolls, religious articles, baby clothes, stuffed toys, aprons, party goods, candy, jewelry, white elephants, "do-it-yourself" Christmas decorations, sporting goods, gifts, party-time miscellany and personalized paper articles.

Youngsters will "play" for prizes at a large fireplace; "Mr. Pickets" will furnish more surprises. Pink lemonade will be available at the Girl Scouts' booth and children can explore the "Kid's Gallery" where there will be a showing gallery and other games of skill. Boy Scouts will be in charge of this, as well as the check room. Girl Scouts and Brownies will operate a novelty booth where inexpensive handmade gifts can be purchased by the children.

Tea and cookies will be served on the stage of the auditorium during the entire fair.

Visitor Goes Backstage At St. Dunstan's Rehearsal

A visitor to a rehearsal at St. Dunstan's playhouse would have trouble distinguishing between the usual "gobs" of a play in the final week of rehearsal and the "mistakes" which are actually intended to be made Friday and Saturday evenings when the second act of "The Torchbearers" is presented.

Thomas Martin, Henry S. Booth and Alan Wentz are taking a fiendish delight in constructing a set in which mistakes pull off in the actors' hands and that fall a Theatrical displays his histrionic abilities.

Not a student complies in the lighting problems by stretching cords across the doorway of the set for dramatic trapping entrance of several actors.

THE BACKSTAGE visitor met first Mrs. Edward T. Bennett and Mrs. Shirley Noble in charge through an old record album for musical style recordings of "Squanto" by Mrs. Bennett's production.

Mrs. Bennett's production of "The Play of the Changeling" is a repeat of a 1941 St. Dunstan's production.

The show of great paint reaches where Mrs. Fred Weed is checking the committee, can be found out through trunks.

The group is looking for an historic 25-year-old costume for "The Play of the Changeling," a revival of St. Dunstan's first production of 25 years ago.

The telephone wires of Mr. Murraper for the evening of the play, which Mrs. Noble's committee have been long all week, with members calling for review.
