Foods Classes Fill Baskets For Needy

They got right into the spirit of Christmas in Miss Dixie Johnson's Birmingham high school foods classes.

Cooking students observe the season by preparing baskets for needy families, making Christmas cookies and candy, adding holiday spirit to their kitchens with a tree and decorations, and learning some pointers about holiday entertaining.

The four foods classes are preparing two holiday baskets for needy families. Two groups contribute to the turkey fund, and remaining classes bring staples and canned goods.

THEIR OWN "school-baked" cookies and candy complete the baskets, which will be delivered by a committee consisting of Margie Cherson, Gretchen Glick, Pat Hendricks, Judy Kolback and Marilyn Clark.

Working in groups of four, such as the one pictured, the future cooks mix batter, decorate, bake and clean up their dishes in their one-hour class periods.

The presence of a male student in cooking class is welcomed by instructor Dixie Johnson, who says that star football guard Jim Rennell sets a high standard for the rest of his class.

JIM, LIKE his father James E. of 1673 Holland, Birmingham, makes a hobby of cooking. Jim hopes to be able to help his wife in the culinary department when he gets married.

A second male student, Dan Beardon, is enrolled in another foods class.

Fifth period students handled decoration of the classroom. Penny Heading, Diane Duerfing, Sarah Harrison and Mary Hawley used a soap spray to write "Merry Christmas" on the window.

A BELL and streamers were hung by Ruby Parker, Diane Holgie, Judy Hall, Gwen Felt, Sharon Brodie and Jayne Beardon. Others helped Claire DeNador decorate the Christmas tree she acquired.

Cranbrook Pupils Hold Yule Pageant, Get Cinemascope

LAST TUESDAY marked the presentation of the twenty-seventh annual Christmas pageant at Cranbrook.

The pageant, built around the Christmas story, began with a Nativity scene.

Several processions followed, including that of the bear's head, the plum pudding and the Yule log. After dinner the traditional Mummer's play was presented by a group of lower schoolers.

The student body then retired to the Page Hall common room, where Father Christmas presented his gracious gifts to students and masters.

CRANBROOK and Kingwood are making plans to bring a foreign student to the Cranbrook institution through the foreign exchange student program. It is hoped that by charging admission to certain social functions, enough money can be secured to carry out the plan.

IN A RECENT assembly figures on the first marking period at Cranbrook were announced. The report showed that the seniors again led classes, with an average of 89.6. Mike Freeman, day boy senior, was again found to be high man in the school, with an average of 97.33.

A NEW Cinemascope screen will be installed in the Cranbrook School auditorium during Christmas vacation. The improvement will be made because it has become difficult to obtain pictures for a small screen.

BHS Students Form Hot Rod Club

At last there is again an organized hot rod club in Birmingham. Recently a group from Birmingham high school got together and formed a hot rod club, the Montclair. The group has the cooperation of the Birmingham police department. Their tentative drag strip is at Hera airport.

Anyone interested in joining is invited to meetings Friday nights at 7 p.m. in the Community House. Members elected Dave Orr president. They plan to set up several races with help from the police department and competition from the Elrod Barons, another local club.
