Parties Original

By VIRGINIA COLE

To entertain your New Year's eve guests, have one game that symbolizes the new year at hand. Try this one:

Secure six 1956 calendars (large ones). Set up as many card tables as needed to accommodate four guests at each. Place in the center of each table, one page of a calendar as decoration.

Make black top hats (actual size) of construction paper and place one on each corner of each table, open-side up. One pair of dice, individual score cards and pencils are at each table.

FROM THE CALENDARS cut out separately: names of months, names of days of week, and numbers that are in the dates. On same size small pieces of plain paper, print several of each of the following: New Year's day, Washington's birthday, Lincoln's birthday, Valentine's day, St. Patrick's day, Easter, Mother's day, May day, April Fool, Father's day, Fourth of July, Labor Day, Halloween, Thanksgiving, Christmas. Also print individual ones of horoscope names of each month and name of the birthstone of each month.

HAVING DONE THIS you will have mountains of small squares of paper. Fold each twice so guests will not see what is on them. Now drop them all, including them evenly, into the top hat.

Print on the score cards, the value of each of these papers: names of months, 50 pts. each; each date 10 points, day of week, 100, horoscope name, 250, birthstone 500, and holidays 1000 each. Remember! Only one word or date number per paper.

ON A PRIZE TABLE, have as many prizes as you have guests but half of the prizes are more valuable than the other half.

At precisely 10:00 p.m. (for instance) play begins. Players roll dice hoping for a seven, eleven or a pair. For any of these, the player may draw one of the papers from the top-hat and record its value on his score card. One roll to a player per turn. Roll for speed as Father Time is timing you. Players re-fold papers and put them back into hat after recording score.

AT 10:30, HOSTESS RINGS New Year's bells. All play stops. Players total scores for first round. Those having highest scores may take one of the valuable prizes on the prize table.

Low scorers take lesser prizes. Players return to tables and receive small gifts at signal of hostess. At 11:00 bells ring, play stops and players again total for second round only.

THIS TIME, HIGH SCORERS take valuable prizes from former holders and low take lesser prizes from former losers. Play is resumed. At 11:45 bells ring. Totalling and prize exchange as before. Play resumes and at 11:30 a wild jangle of alarm clocks, which the hostess has previously set for 11:30 and hidden about the room, breaks loose. Play stops for good immediately.

EACH PLAYER TOTALS his score for this final round and adds his three totals together for his grand score. The same, high scorers take valuable prizes and low take low for keeps.

Hats, serpentine and noise makers are popular and all welcome in the New Year.

Midnight lunch of avocado salad, green and white ribbon sandwiches, flaming plum pudding and coffee. Tea for adults will love this party.

Evenly Matched

Alice, Texas—Edgar Lee Starts watched two perfectly matched rattlesnakes fighting. Finally, he killed them both and found that each measured 5 feet 3 inches and had 13 rattles.
