

ALL DECKED OUT IN PARTY DRESSES were little friends of Betsy Edwards (fourth from left) who was five years old on Christmas day. They are celebrating at the home of the guest of honor's aunt, Mrs. Stanley Dvorek of Forest, Lathrup.

Greens Fill Chancel For Holiday Wedding

Mary Margaretta Rulison was gowned in a regal dress of exquisite silk taffeta with a cathedral train for her marriage to Paul Adam Phillips. Vows were repeated at 7:30 p.m. Friday in St. Paul's Episcopal church, Lansing. The Rev. George R. Selway officiated.

The church was decorated for Christmas with the chancel filled with evergreen trees and each pillar of the church decorated with an evergreen swag. The altar held two large bouquets of red carnations and white poinsettias. Small bunches of evergreen tied with red ribbons decorated the ends of each pew.

Classic lines of the bridal gown featured a princess blouse tapering into a long, flowing skirt. Long sleeves extended into tiny points over the wrist and the shoulder, wide neckline was accented with applique along lace. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a pillbox hat of silk taffeta adorned with red and white sequins. She carried a white prayer book topped with white roses, ivy and stephanotis.

MRS. William Gilmore was matron of honor in a waltz-length gown of deep blue imported Italian velvet styled with princess lines, scooped neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. Her headpiece was a matching bandeau of the same material with a rose veil decorated with scattered rhinestones. Short white kid gloves, a gift of the bride, completed the outfit. Flowers were a presentation bouquet of long stemmed red roses. Other attendants were Janet Sullivan of Lansing, and Joette Fischer, a Kappa Alpha Theta sorority sister. They wore costumes identical to that of the matron except that they carried cascading bouquets of red roses.

JULIE DEE, nine-year-old sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. She wore a floor-length gown of deep blue velvet with princess lines, rounded neckline and puff sleeves. Her headpiece was similar to that of the other attendants without a veil and she carried a colonial bouquet of red and white roses.

Robert Shaw of Williamsburg, Mich., college fraternity brother of the groom, was best man. Seating the guests were John Rulison, Jr., brother of the bride, John Shaw and Charles Insley, fraternity brothers of the groom, and James Hoskins of Grosse Pointe.

PARENTS of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. John Gustavus of Colo-

Christmas Baby Celebrates Fifth Birthday

Christmas has a double meaning for Betsy Edwards who was born five years ago on December 25. Although her celebration is usually combined with Christmas, this year her aunt, Mrs. Stanley Dvorek, 19900 Forest, Lathrup, entertained at a surprise party on Thursday.

Seven little friends gathered in party dresses and favors of miniature snowmen were pinned to each. First of the guests arriving was Chris Shirey in a pale blue cotton.

Following were Alexis Martin in a navy and white polka dot, Kimberly Moyer in pink nylon with blue stars and Cousie Ann Fogley in a red felt holiday skirt. Lore Louise Driscoll arrived in a pink nylon and her sister, Anne Colleen Driscoll, in a pale blue corduroy topped with a white organza pinafore. The guest of honor was in a black velvet skirt with a blue nylon blouse, while her sister, Gail Lynn Edwards, was in a two-tone blue corduroy skirt with a white blouse.

Gifts were opened and party food was served from a gaily decorated table centered with a miniature tree. Betsy's birthday cake was topped with a "Santa" and five candles in miniature choir candle-holders.

Betsy is the daughter of the Leon Edwards of Detroit and is visiting with her aunt.

MRS. DONALD ALAN WAPLES

Heirloom Trim Accents Gown of Tuesday Bride

Jane Allison Gruber became the bride of Donald Alan Waples Tuesday evening in the First Presbyterian church. The Rev. W. Glen Harris performed the candlelight service which was followed by a reception at Devon Gardens.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gruber of Knox street, Birmingham. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn C. Wagner of Bedford are the parents of the bridegroom. Jane wore a white waltz-length dress of chantilly lace over satin. The small round collar and the lace cap, from which fell her veil, were trimmed in pearls and rhinestones from her mother's wedding gown. She carried a bouquet of gardenias.

MARILYN Kelly of Grand Rapids was Jane's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Jocelyn Watt, Janet Brown, Judy LeMessurier and Mary Holmes.

All five attendants wore identical dresses of Westwood blue taffeta with fitted bodice and bouffant ballerina-length skirts. Their veiled headbands were of velvet in the same blue and they carried corsages of feathered carnations with baby leaves.

William Perkins of Detroit was best man. Seating the guests were George Nugent, David Williams, Eric Davidson and Sandy Gruber, brother of the bride, who came from Ft. Belvoir, Va., for the wedding.
