

Want Faster Action On Elm Samplings

William Lebold, city forester, department of agriculture to cut the said this week he felt some action time lag in reporting on samples should be taken by the state de- of trees suspected of Dutch elm disease. City commissioners this week formally agreed with Lebold to wait 21 days between his shipping of samples and receipt of reports. He feels 10 to 14 days would permit better control work in infected areas. Lebold's recommendations in a commission report which will be forwarded to the state.

To members of the trout fishing fraternity, regulations governing the main stream of the Au Sable river make the big news in fish laws for 1955.

From Burton's landing to Wakely's Bridge, fishermen may use nothing but artificial flies as the lure.

THE MINIMUM size legal trout taken from these same waters must now be 10 inches in length, and the maximum daily limit has been reduced to 5 trout.

It must be said in favor of the Au Sable river guides that their own recommendations for the changes played an important part in bringing about the new rulings. And in asking for these changes, these same guides were acting most unselfishly for it may mean fewer satisfied customers in the summer months ahead.

TEN INCH trout got 'a lot smarter than the 7 inch variety'. And obviously the smaller bag limit simply means fewer trout to take home from the trip. Yet the guides realize that the future of Au Sable trout fishing may well depend upon this measure. Many of the fish taken under the old laws had not reached spawning age, and the use of bait and "hard-ware" lures proved lethal to under-sized fish which promptly died after release.

City Gets Streets

Maintenance of West Maple, through to Redeemer Lutheran church, and Herby road, between Coolidge and Eton, has been accepted by the City of Birmingham. Maintenance has previously been handled by Oakland county.

Branch of the Au Sable near Leavels! And you'll find the wagers one at high odds against you! It is to be pitied that these same Au Sable river guides did not take it upon themselves to forbid the use of outboard motors on the main stream of the Au Sable in these same waters now restricted to fly fishing.

ALL OF the water is shallow enough to make. All of it has much of the primitive beauty that contributes to complete relaxation for the fisherman. Yet the guides themselves use outboard motors unnecessarily in the river, virtually ruining the peaceful tranquility of one of Michigan's most beautiful water trails.
