Chronic Borrowers Become Unpopular With Most People

By HELEN BRUNSON
Special Writer for The Birmingham Eclectic

We all know what Shakespeare said about borrowing, and most of us are inclined to agree with him. And the time to discourage this bad habit is in the younger years—another thing for mothers to think about.

It's easy for a child to get started borrowing, first in school. Nancy is out of note paper most of the time, so she finds it convenient to get it from the child across the aisle. When that one rebel, Nancy finds another victim who'll perhaps provide her with paper and pencils besides.

Mrs. Brunson

Nancy has the money to get her own supplies, but just doesn't bother, so she becomes a nuisance to her classmates.

AS SHE GETS into high school, her habit grows. She uses a classmate's gym-suit for a whole semester, because she doesn't get around to ordering one. Her lockermate provides her with fresh tissues, pen-kitties, and even cake money.

Nor does this habit make life easier for Nancy. The high school crowd has a standing joke about "Who's going to pay Nancy's way?"

Shirley, her best friend, is getting tired of lending her everything from lab-manikis to formalis. There are times, of course, when children must borrow.

YOUR little daughter needs a colonial costume for her part in the school opera, and her girl friend offers one. Or, your boy is caught at a friend's house after a picnic, with only wet socks to wear home. So he borrows a dry pair. These are exceptions, and not part of a habit. If your child does borrow—how are his manners?

AND, A CHILD should never be allowed to ask for the loan of something really valuable. Ever since the time of the luckless lady in De Maupassant's story of the necklace, this practice has resulted in trouble.

That expensive camera had better be left out of the picnic if it's a borrowed one. It costs too much to buy another if it's lost or broken. The risk is simply too great. Young people should be taught this.

So it's up to us mothers to keep borrowing in hand, first by being good examples.

Then let's teach the kids to have their own equipment and use it. If they can't afford some item, they can learn to do without. They can remember to have their own supplies, their own spending money, their own clothes.

They'll keep their friends and Mother can keep her peace of mind as well.

Neither Rain Nor Hail ... Nor Broken Boxes!

Red Fowler, local R.F.D. mailman, got an English car—with a right-hand drive so he can stuff mailboxes from behind the wheel.

"It's great!" Red reports "But it would work a lot better if all box holders would follow regulations. A mailbox should be 20 feet from the right side of the road, within reaching distance from a car window. If one is knocked down, the owner should make repairs pronto."

stamped, dishing money orders—saving his trips to the Post Office. Let's fix up those boxes so he can get his chores done fast.

From where I sit, obligations always work both ways. For instance, I figure that I'm obliged to respect your right to enjoy your people beverage—be it coffee, tea, beer, buttermilk or whatever. Why? Because I'd expect you to do the same for me. The Golden Rule should be followed "to the letter" by everyone.

188 hp Buick SPECIAL 6 Passenger, 4-Door Riviera, Model 43

This 4-Door Beauty is the Newest Hit in Hardtops

YOU certainly ought to come see why this new kind of hardtop is headed for the best-seller list. It's a Buick Riviera, of course. Which means the low and rakish look of a Convertible—a solid steel roof overhead—and no center posts in the side window areas to obstruct your view.

But that's only the beginning. Here you get two extra doors. They open to the rear compartment. So no one in the front has to move when someone gets into or out of the rear. Here you get massive half-pillars on either side on which the front doors latch and the rear doors hinge. (That's why you see no center posts above the door line.)

Here, too, you get wholly new structural principles in body design and strength that give this beauty the extra safety of rock-firm solidity at the top, sides and bottom.

And here—bless those Buick engineers!—you get a lot more room in the rear compartment. For the 4-Door Riviera gives you over 9 inches more hiproom and 5 inches more legroom—yet with no increase in wheelbase or over-all car length.

So we repeat—you certainly ought to come in and see this stunning new kind of hardtop.

It's the last word in beauty, comfort, convenience. It's available in Buick's two lowest-priced Series—the SPECIAL and the CENTURY. And it's all Buick—power, ride, handling—and the spectacular performance of Buick's Variable Pitch Dynaflow. Drop in today—tomorrow at the latest—and learn what Buick's all-time record sales year can mean to you in the way of a whopping-big trade-in deal.

*Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the new Dynaflow Buick built today. It is standard on ROADMASTER, optional on models extra cost on other Series.
