of the Pontiac trail and other historic spots. Strangely enough, every year she taught history, she said that there was always one person in the class of Indian descent.

If occasionally in her classes someone "raised an eyebrow" about the background of another pupil, she said she took stock of the class, showing them that the entire class was a melting-pot.

IN HER CLASSES she put low accent on dates, battles, and names of generals, with only a few plating dates emphasized. She said that she always made it a point, to ease across the idea that the students had to do all the work.

For outside reading she assigned them to read books that inspired them to be better youngsters, but did not require them to report the name.

"But, read they must!" "Before marking period was up in social studies I told them, 'Nobody gets an 'A' in my social studies class who hasn't attended church or Sunday school.' That is one of the requisites of being a good citizen."

ALTHOUGH TEACHING has primarily been her life, she found an outlet for her excess energy in the work of the A. W. W. Village Players, work she enjoyed very much, being very enthusiastic about the good she has done and aided in through these agencies.

Miss Rogers says that in all her years of teaching she had only one child in her class who couldn't reach, no matter how hard she tried. That boy she says, was later shot and wounded, state police while attempting to steal a car, and died shortly after.

"A SAVING SENSE of humor" is one characteristic that Miss Rogers strongly recommends for anyone who aspires to be a school teacher. To young people thinking of entering the profession, she says:

"Find out whether you like it or not, and if you don't like it, don't teach." "But if you decide to teach, don't let anyone discourage you by saying that you can't live well on a teacher's salary. My own thinking can't think it had when I recall two trips to Europe, one on a yacht ship that required 10 days to make a crossing, and one by TWA that required only 18 hours, 11 automobiles, a home that I like, a trip to Mexico by car, and one to Havana by plane, five fur coats, fur cape, and fur stole that I have received from my teacher's salary through the years."

"More important than all this is the host of friends that I will never live without, and my precious memories that I'll always have with me."

Beverlyte Heads Nat'l ASSE Women

Mrs. H. R. Dusendorf of Sheridan drive, Beverly Hills, the national president of the women's auxiliary to the American Society of Sanitary Engineering, is hostessing a planning session for the national convention.

Members of the Detroit area group will be bringing their box lunches to the event, one of two planned by the state president, Mrs. Frank P. McGinty.

They will be discussing plans for the convention to be held in Vancouver, B. C., September 1.

THE FIRST MEET was hostessed by Mrs. Corone Calkins at her Wing Lake home early in June.

At the convs, Mrs. Dusendorf will be renewing acquaintances with members from all over the United States.

The Dusendorfs will leave the convention train at Seattle to visit friends and five brothers in California, and to return home about October 1.

JOYCE DUSENDORF is currently taking a library science course at the University of Michigan.

Miss Dusendorf taught Spanish and English and had charge of the library at the high school, after leaving during the past school year.

Blair Swartz And His Bride Travel East

The Blair Kitch Swartzes, who took their wedding vows in a non-time ceremony on June 29 at Christ Church, Cranbrook, are spending some time at Lake Placid, N. Y., before going to Southbridge, Mass., for the summer.

The bride, who was Laura Rosser Sparks of Pottsville, Pa., before the nuptials, is the daughter of Mrs. Lucy Sparks of Pottsville and the late Mr. John Sparks.

The bridegroom is son of Mrs. Richard I. Moran of Grosse Pointe, Charles B. Buchanan of Appleton, Wis., and Charles Sult, of Dearborn.

The bridegroom, who is stationed at Fort Carson, Colo., spent several days at his parents' home previous to the wedding, and has taken his bride on a honeymoon in Chicago for several days before returning to his post. They will make their home in Colorado Springs, Colo., where his bride is a senior at Colorado College.

THE COUPLE were attended by the sister, Susan Swartz, and Donald Stewart, of Denver. The four were all alibegs of Antioch college, Yellow Springs, O.

The Swartzes was graduated just four days before the wedding from Antioch, and his bride just from the University of Illinois during the past year.

In the fall, after Swartz works this summer for American Optical in Southbridge, he will attend classes and be an assistant in teaching at Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Cambridge, Mass. His bride will be an assistant in geology at MIT.

City Is Hosting Foreign Students For Three Days

About two dozen Birmingham homes opened their doors yesterday, July 16, to 35 young people from 15 foreign countries who have spent the past year as students in the United States.

Arranged here by host the young men and women were guests at an informal reception at the Fairfax home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sumner, where they were introduced to the local families who will be their hosts through Friday.

Host and hostess duties at the Sumner home were in charge of Linda Lewis, Judy Newberg, Anne Alexander, Anne Gardner, Warren and Bill Sumner, Jim Ewing and Jeff Ott.

Today's program will include a tour of the Dodge plant in Detroit and this evening, a dance sponsored by the Birmingham Community House. Birmingham young people will be on hand to entertain and greet the traveling guests.

ACTS TAKEN from high school stage productions will include Steve Paw's singing of "Old Man River" and the Mammy Dance routine by Don Thibault.

Guests will see young America in a musical production of the extremely hot weather. The singers will include Thibault, Tom Kelly, Barkley Goss, Dale Borrows, Ken Hogan, Ted Schaffer and Dick Pease.

Nancy Rutz will be soloist for the "Bird of Paradise" chorus which includes Ned Stooler, Eric Kays, Howard Leavensworth, Tom Frazier, Doreen Hudson, Jim Leach, Douglas Austin and Don Halbert.

Members of the Community House board will be hosts.

ANOTHER SOCIAL event planned for the group is the tea at Baldwin library at 3 p.m. July 8.

The balance of the group will be free from formal arrangements, including hosting families and students to work out their own plans of things most desirable, including a possible schedule of dining noths.

Sponsored by the American Friends Society these groups are made up of students, 16 to 18, selected from their outstanding qualities. AFS brings them to the country for a year to allow them to become fully acquainted with Americans, to further international understanding and relations.

THEIR SCHOOL year is climaxed by charter bus trips to give them a first view of the USA, sections they have not seen before, including industrial, agricultural, cultural and scenic sections.

In addition to learning more about their host nation, the groups through close contact on

Bargain Boxers Close At Party, Then Reopen

A party marking the end of what Junior Leaguers term a successful season was held by the members on the staff of the league's Bargain Box shop last June 30.

Then, members received their decision to close immediately for summer months, and announced that the shop will remain open until August 1. Then, it will be closed.

The Bargain box is the only monthly making project of the Birmingham Junior League, and from its profits come funds for the league's senior workshop, hospital care, and children's theater.

This year's chairman, Mrs. Gerald L. Kinmel, turned over her duties to Mrs. Harter Williams, next year's chairman, at the party. Mrs. Doris Duckworth, the shop's professional manager, is a recent addition to the staff.

THE WORKSHOP is a Friday meeting of the city's senior league at the Community House. The initial card takes candy, cigarettes and toilet articles to the bedside of all patients at St. Joseph's hospital. The theatre played to over 1400 children in Oakland county in the spring.

The shop, on South Woodward, is a re-sale shop where all localities are welcome to buy or bring in clothes and small household items for consignment sale.

COMING ORIGINALLY from Birmingham, England, she came here in 1952.

Her aides, of Mrs. Williams' staff of volunteers, will be Mrs. William Kelly, Mrs. Gordon Miller, Mrs. George Maxted, Mrs. Charles M. Call, Mrs. Frank Allen, Mrs. John Ingram, Mrs. Bevela Hanlon and Mrs. Maxwell Matthews.
