Silks, Laces, Veils Imported For Last Weekend's Brides

Silk from Italy, laces from Belgium and veils from France went into wedding garbs for the many ceremonies in the Birmingham area last weekend. Friday shared spotlight with Saturday for this, the peak week for June brides. All this month, the number has been increasing, until last weekend more than a dozen Birmingham and Bloomfield brides walked up aisles to speak vows with waiting bridegrooms. Clouds obscured the sunshine at times for the weekend of their lives for these young couples, but nothing obscured the happiness shining from brides' faces or glistening in proud mothers' tears. And so as climax to the month of brides, the Birmingham Eccentric presents this June 30 bride's page and several other bridal notes, as well, elsewhere in the paper.

In a candlelight ceremony at Christ Church Cranbrook Saturday, Nancy Irene Burgess became the bride of Dr. Thomas Stedman Torgerson. White carnations and trees of Dorothy Perkins roses trimmed the altar and chancel as the Rev. William C. Johnson of St. John's in Detroit, and the Rev. Irwin C. Norvell officiated at the 4:30 service.

The bride was given in marriage in the double-ring service by her godfather, Harold M. Taylor of Akron, Ohio. She is the daughter of Mrs. Magnus Mallory Burgess of Country Club drive, Bloomfield Hills, and the late Mr. Burgess. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Emil Torgerson of St. Petersburg, Fla., formerly of Kalamazoo.

In a double-ring ceremony in the St. James Episcopal church on Saturday afternoon, Margaret Holmes Stanton became the bride of Kent McDonald. The vows were heard at 4 p.m. by the Rev. Harold E. Towne before 400 wedding guests.

THE BRIDE IS the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tennyson of the St. James Episcopal church. The groom is the son of Mrs. Fred Dale McDonald of Phoenix, Arizona, and the late Mr. McDonald. The bride's gown of Italian silk had a billowing skirt extending into a court train. The bodice and long sleeves were trimmed with appliques of alencon lace embroidered with seed pearls and crystal beads. A Dutch cap of alencon lace adorned with seed pearls and crystal beads held her fingertip veil of silk illusion. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of album lilies and ivy.

THE OTHER attendants wore floor-length dresses of pink marquisette over taffeta and carried bouquets of blue delphinium. All wore small hats of horse hair braid to match their dresses. Dr. Vernon Dodson of Ann Arbor served as the bridegroom's best man. Seating the wedding guests were Dr. Clayton Rose of Toronto, Ontario, cousin of the bride, Thomas Look, John Owen Look, Carl A. Look, all of Detroit, and Edward Hubbel of Howell.

Mrs. Albert Scott was the best man. Ushers were Lawrence Nahrang of Detroit, Charles Kellogg, Jr. of Jackson, Phillip Murphy of Pinckney, and James Scott McCall of Flint. The attendants were gowned alike in ballerina frocks of white embroidered in corndor blue with wisps of veiling. Honor maids carried yellow and blue majestic daisies and the bridesmaids carried yellow majestic daisies.

THE BRIDE chose a dress in the Victorian tradition of Italian taffeta in princess lines with fitted bodice and a portrait neckline. Her hair was styled in a cathedral train, draped and caught up by diminutive hearts of taffeta outlined, as were the long sleeves and neckline, in finely shirred ruching of nylon tulle. Her veil of duchesse lace was bought in Paris when the family was there in the fall. The bride carried shell pink carnations, a favorite of her late father's, in a nosegay centered by tiny carnation buds and surrounded by a pink tulle frill.

MRS. ROBERT FREDERICK KILBURN was the matron of honor. Maid of honor was Ethel Armeling of Denver, Colorado. Other attendants were Mrs. Elizabeth Allen Brown of Ann Arbor, Elizabeth Allen Holmes of Washington, D. C., cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Alan Traugott of Flint. Julie Ann Calver was junior bridesmaid.

Attendants wore similar floor-length gowns of peacock blue taffeta with full skirts, sleeveless fitted bodices and square collars of blue lace. Bouquets were pale pink carnations centered with maroon rosebuds.

THE BRIDE IS the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Owen Jones of 780 Oakland. Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Denning of Chicago. The bride's gown of Italian silk taffeta had a fitted bodice with cap sleeves and a galeric neckline applied with alencon lace and tiny pearls. The full skirt ended in a chapel sweep. A tiered illusion veil was held by a cap of alencon lace and tiny pearls. She carried a white orchid with a spray of mississippis on her prayer book.
