Township Questions

SOUTHFIELD—Township officials are not too concerned over a ruling handed down last week by State Attorney General Thomas M. Kavanagh that the township did not have the legal power to employ more than two assessors or an exercise the legal power to the state of the lilegality of our hiral persons to help the assessors reassess the indire township, except the township, "said Supervisor Eugene Swem.

At the annual board meeting on April 10, 1954 the residents authorized by a 100 to 89 vote the expenditure of $39,830 for reassessment of the township.

AND on April 19. 1955. Harry Dell, township attorney.

AND on April 19, 1955, Harry Dell, township attorney, gave, a legal opinion that three extra men could be hired to aid in the work but would have to be considered assistants to the supervisor, not assessors, and would take measure-to-the two assessors and figuring of assessments would be left to the two assessors are people when the control of the two assessors are people when the control of the two assessors are people when the people when t

THE question of legality was raised by Donald Swanson of 24067 Pennsylvania, at the annual meeting held last April 11. Kavanagh's opinion was delivered on request of Swanson. Swem said he is waiting for an answer to a letter to Kavanagh written last week which outlines the township's situation. "Well continue with the three helpers until we are told to do otherwise," said Swem.
