Shovels and Tow Trucks Dot Landscape of Muddy Roads

"Stuck" was the password last week throughout the Berkshires and almost every resident in the area had at least one occasion to use it. Tow trucks were swarming all over the place, residents were out shoveling mud back into the ruts and the ends of the streets looked like parking lots.

Old-timers in the area are consoling newcomers by assuring them the roads have never been worse in six years, and reminding them that summers' coming.

Looking forward to some good weather hot enough to dry out the bulldozed mountains in their front yard are the William C. Youngs. April they hope to migrate to Poppono Beach, Florida, where they have another new home waiting to be decorated and furnished.

Family-wise, there's six-year-old Billy who is in the first grade at Bloomfield Village school; then there are Mrs. Young's parents, the Harry Hagemans; and last residents at 1425 Parkstone lane. Janet, 9, a third grader at Bloomfield Village school; Roy, 4, Bruce, 2, and young James, 2 months old, complete the Heidrich family. Heidrich gets all the credit for moving here from Detroit last January 28, says Mrs. Heidrich since she was in the hospital then with newborn James.

When not working around his new home Heidrich serves as secretary-treasurer for the Heidrich Tool and Die company. He enjoys a golf game in his spare time, too.

Members of Cub Scout Den 6 are really on their good behavior these days. As one of their recent group activities, they made a tour of the Birmingham police department.

Mate Davies, Jim Falconer, Bill Wolfram, Ralph De Nio, Scott Robson, Tom Fogarty, David West and Doug Miller were accompanied by their den mothers, Mrs. Ray Davies and Mrs. Robson as they listened to incoming police calls, saw the interrogation room and watched "the men in blue" in action.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kuta returned recently to their home in the muddy Berkshires after spending three glorious weeks in Miami, Florida. But they brought their own sunshine back with them by stopping off en route home at Louisville to pick up their daughter, Mrs. Perk Robbins, with three-month-old grandson, Ricky Lee Robbins.

Another recent returnee from Florida is Mrs. Franklyn E. McDonald, 5892 Oakhills, who flew home March 14 following a three-week stay in the south. After several days visit with daughter, Cynthia, a student at Rollins college in Winter Park, Florida, Mrs. McDonald chose the Azure Tides hotel at Lido Beach as her headquarters for sun and fun.

NEW YORK GUESTS

Dr. and Mrs. Otto Grob, of Parkstone lane, are entertaining friends of long standing as houseguests, the doctors Desires Annals, from Long Island, New York. (No, it's not a misprint, both the Annals are Doctors.) Mrs. Grob says the proposed ten-day visit won't be long enough for them to say all they have to say unless they can devise a conversational shorthand.

The Ronald Bevers of Wedgewood drive recently returned from Rocky River, Ohio, after a long weekend with the William H. Williams and they report that it's green-up time down there and the bulbs are beginning to pop. Normally southern Michigan lays only about two weeks behind Rocky River so it won't be long before the song of lawn mowers is heard in the Berkshires.

There's a small newcomer in our midst, Lynn Patricia Lindsay, born to Mr. and Mrs. Ted Lindsay of the Berkshires. Lynn weighed in at the Florence Crittenton Hospital, March 9, at 7 pounds, 6 ounces. Her brother, Robert Blake, who is only been around 14 months himself, is getting acquainted with Lynn Patricia and so is her grandmother, Mrs. Lowell Snell, of Detroit.
