FRANKLIN — Bond of $3,250 HARRY DURBIN of the village for guarantee of road construction planning commission, presented village standards, is the last evidence that the seven-mile, plat Larry for Struback Corporation, south of I3 Mile and east of Frank Co. of Oak Park to handle before lin, had met all state, county and their Kirk subdivision plan is in-village requirements and recom-proved.

Although the bond was ready at plat. The bats would line the east side Munday's council meeting, it did not contain the minimum village of requirements for road construction. The bats has been retained by The plat was approved, however, owner, Oliver H. Kip, pending insertion of rewording of a councilman Robert Mitchell emphasized that some road building in the area, which had not met minimum requirements, was not given his approval, Mitchell, is village road commissioner.

MITCHELL claimed that some road built by Oak and county had not been meeting the village's requirements.

"I think that it ought to be made perfectly clear that we're not following the slipshod manner of Oakland county," said councilman Glenn Shoemaker. "If there are minimum requirements then you one has the right to deviate from them."

Shoemaker pointed out, however, that it would not be possible for the village to hold the contractor responsible for the road for a year after it had been completed, to see if the road would stand up to weather.
