

Families Like Yule Traditions

By ALICE WESSELS BURLINGAME

The holidays are approaching rapidly, and there is a real challenge for the homemaker to create an atmosphere around her home for her family and friends.

Traditions are not "old-fashioned" and are really made of the stuff which appeals to all of the members of the family. If you do not provide this atmosphere for your children, in later years they will gravitate to homes where this warmth is dispensed.

As Christmas is a religious holiday, it is important to create arrangements to give a hallowed feel. A variety of evergreens and holly leaves arranged with a nativity scene or white ceramic ornaments sets the tempo for other arrangements on the tables. Christmas trees and walls.

IT IS WISE to shop early for your new, added decorations, as buyers never hold back their choices to attract the eye piece of permanent decorative material.

Last year we noted that the most effective lighted outdoor trees had just one color of bulb used for the entire tree.

THERE WILL be many gift plants entering your home from Thanksgiving to New Year's. Remember the mum plants are grown from different stock than we grow outdoors, so don't hopelessly hang on to the plant beyond the flowering period.

Your very best investment for your money will be a cyclamen. It flowers over the longest period, but cannot be successfully carried over by the novice.

Polisettias are a short day plant and cannot be brought into flower yellow.

Individual Photos Eighth Birthday Party Place Cards

Flowers, faces and fun featured Judy Dehm's party celebrating her eighth birthday on Saturday. July is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Dehm of 16645 Dunblaine.

Guests were Betty Arthur, Sally Dohn, Janice Gattward, Joann Lakatos, Beth Mowry, Marie Moser, Christine Smith, Jackie Smith, Mary Dee Van Dellen and Cathy Zawadski.

As each of her guests arrived, a corsage of miniature roses was presented and a photo was taken. The picture was then put on a guest's plate, which served as a place card.

After the games, each guest found her place at the table, decorated with a musical carousel clustered with balloons revolving with a merry tune. Because most of Judy's guests are members of local dancing schools, the birthday a second year unless you understand the booking technique which calls for a dark room without lights for several months in the fall, so don't hang on to your camera beyond its peak performance.

All flowering plants need watering daily. If you give too much water the lower leaves will turn and cannot be brought into flower yellow.
