To the Ladies of the Senior Workshop:

My grateful thanks to you for sending me such a lovely hand-knit lap robe. I know it will be useful as well as handsome, and I shall see that it is packed to go to Gettysburg.

Mrs. Eisenhower joins me in sincere thanks and good wishes to you.

Sincerely,
Dwight D. Eisenhower

President Takes Afghan to Gettysburg

The more than fifty members of the Senior Workshop of the Birmingham Community House are pleased and excited to show a letter to them from the President of the United States.

The ladies of the Knitting group at the Senior Workshop knitted and crocheted an afghan for President Eisenhower to use during his recuperation and he has written them a letter thanking them for his lovely gift. The group has also knitted 12 afghans this year for work is followed by luncheon and card games.

The Senior Workshop meets every Friday morning at the Birmingham Community House where they engage in various projects such as afghans, favors for children in hospitals and pads for the American Cancer Society. Their work is followed by luncheon and card games.

The workshop is co-sponsored by the Birmingham Community House and the Birmingham Junior League and is open to women over sixty years of age living in the area who wish to engage in this sort of work.

Local Teacher Views Army at Ft. Carson

Jay Myers, teacher at Birmingham high school spent three days at Fort Carson, Colo., watching the Army in action.

He is among a group of 97 Midwest educators on a week-long tour of three Army, Air Force and Navy installations. The educators are from 10 states in the Fifth Army area, principally Michigan.

Purpose of the tour is to acquaint the school officials with actual operations of the services so they can better inform interested students and other residents back home about them.

The unique program under which the tour is being conducted, called "Defense Information Orientation," was conceived by the Michigan Secondary Schools Association.

Society deadline is 3 p.m. each Tuesday.

Adult Education Survey Circulating

What adult education courses should be included in a Bloomfield Hills school district program are being surveyed in a questionnaire now being circulated by the Hills' parent-teacher organization.

Courses would be offered at the new district high school one or two nights a week, depending on subject.

A nominal fee would cover expenses.

Unused Alley

An unused alley easement north of 14 Mile, between Eton and Mansfield, should be vacated, according to a petition submitted to the city. Plan board will review the request.
